Memorandum Paper 2013 Agricultural Sciences:

Transforming Agriculture in South Asia Ashok K. Mishra, Anjani Kumar, Pramod K. Joshi, 2020-12-30 Debates about public expenditure in the agricultural sector have reopened in many developing and emerging economies because of high budget deficits and changes in public opinion. As a result, agricultural policy in many of these countries is beginning to take a more market-oriented approach to agrarian problems, most notably through the introduction of contract farming. This book explores the policy issues around contract farming and its transformative potential and addresses the lack of empirical research on this topic by focusing on South Asia, principally India, Bangladesh, and Nepal. The book first addresses the effects of contract farming, vertical coordination, on productivity, food security, indicators, yield, consumption, expenditures, prices, employment, and input usage. Then it draws lessons from the South Asian case studies on the impact of institutional changes like contract farming on income and food security of smallholder households. The core of the book includes case study chapters on several commodities that are produced under contract farming, including vegetables and fisheries in Bangladesh, low value crops in Nepal, and coffee in India. Other chapters also explore contracts, storage, input usage, and technical efficiency in these cases. This book serves as an essential guide to academics, researchers, students, legislative liaisons, and think tank groups interested in agrarian issues, agricultural economics, and agricultural policy in emerging economies and particularly in South Asia.

Trade Liberalisation and Economic Development in Africa Gift Mugano, 2021-09-30 This book provides a thorough and rigorous discussion on the impact of trade liberalisation on economic development, with a special focus on the African continent. The author presents the rationale for trade liberalisation, trade liberalisation frameworks, the trade liberalisation-economic development nexus, impediments to trade, and contemporary issues of international trade. In this book, notwithstanding the benefits from trade liberalisation, the author shows that African trade as a share of global trade has remained flat at 3% as in 1975, while the continent's exports have remained raw materials, and its intra-regional trade at less than 15% of total trade, which is the lowest in the world (UNCTAD 2020). With respect to key economic development indicators such as economic growth, poverty levels, and employment levels, this book shows that, ironically and in direct contrast with the conventional views that trade liberalisation alleviates poverty, trade liberalisation in Africa has resulted in high levels of unemployment and low economic growth, which ultimately lead to increased poverty. In addition, this book provides a detailed analysis of why trade liberalisation has failed to yield meaningful benefits to Africa. The binding constraints and blockages which prevent positive spin-offs on trade liberalisation in Africa are discussed in detail in this book. In the same vein, the author provides practical strategies which must be adopted by African countries in order to gain from trade liberalisation, making this work a must-read for African governments, academia, trade experts, regional trading blocs, the World Trade Organization, and development partners. In view of this and as part of the disruptive and structural transformation policies, the author discusses case studies and international experience contextualised to Africa, as well as strategies for addressing the trade related infrastructure gap production capacities export promotion and aid for trade
