

- 2 Some metal carbonates cannot be obtained in a pure state. For example magnesium carbonate exists in a 'basic' form, in which magnesium hydroxide is also present.

One possible chemical formula of basic magnesium carbonate is  $\text{MgCO}_3 \cdot \text{Mg}(\text{OH})_2 \cdot 2\text{H}_2\text{O}$ .

When basic magnesium carbonate is heated, if the possible formula were correct, it would decompose as shown below.

In this experiment, you will decompose basic magnesium carbonate by heating it, and you will use your results to determine whether this possible formula is correct.

FB 4 is basic magnesium carbonate.

(a) Method

Read through the method before starting any practical work and prepare a table for your results in the space below.

- Weigh a crucible with its lid and record the mass.
- Add 1.1-1.3g of FB 4 to the crucible. Weigh the crucible and lid with FB 4 and record the mass.
- Place the crucible on the pipe-clay triangle and remove the lid.
- Heat the crucible and contents gently for about one minute.
- Then heat the crucible and contents strongly for about four minutes.
- Replace the lid and allow the crucible to cool for at least five minutes.
- While the crucible is cooling, you may wish to begin work on Question 3.
- Re-weigh the crucible and contents with lid. Record the mass.
- Calculate, and record, the mass of FB 4 used and the mass of residue obtained.
