The Syntax of Information-Structural Agreement Johannes Mursell, 2021-09-15 In this research monograph Johannes Mursell discusses the syntactic impact of information structural features on agreement. So far the syntactic contribution of this type of feature has mostly been reduced to movement of topics or foci clause initial position. Here the author looks at a different phenomenon syntactic agreement and how this process can be dependent on information structural properties. Based partly on original fieldwork from a typologically diverse set of languages including Tagalog, Swahili and Lavukaleve it is argued that for most areas for which information structural features have been discussed it is possible to find cases where these features influence phi feature agreement. The analysis is then extended to cases of Association with Focus which does not involve phi features but can still be accounted for with agreement of information structural features. The book achieves two main goals: first it provides a uniform analysis for different constructions in unrelated languages. Second it also gives a new argument that information structural features should be treated as genuine syntactic features.

Sappho in the Holy Land Chava Frankfort-Nachmias, Erella Shadmi, 2012-02-01 This unique collection examines the experience of lesbians in Israel, providing insight into some of the institutions that have helped shape that experience. The book analyzes and interprets how culturally specific political, ideological and social systems construct lesbian identities, experiences and dilemmas, and it also explores how a specific society is seen, understood and interpreted from a lesbian perspective. Written by scholars, professionals and grassroots activists representing different sectors of the Israeli political spectrum, this book provides a broad perspective of the lesbian experience in Israel.

Forest and Stream, 1881 Singapore, Spirituality, and the Space of the State Joanne Punzo Waghorne, 2020-03-19 This book examines spirituality in Singapore, showing how important the city state is for understanding contemporary global configurations of urban space, religion and spirituality. Joanne Punzo Waghorne highlights how the formal religious spaces, temples, churches and mosques have been confined to allotted sites on the map of Singapore, whereas various spiritual organizations, particularly of Hindu origins and headed by a guru, still continue to operate as societies classified by the government with other clubs. These unconventional religiosities are not confined but ironically make their own places, meeting in ostensive secular venues: high rise flats, malls, businesses and community centers, thus existing in the overall space of religion, commerce and the state. The book argues that the State of Singapore also operates between the secular and the religious, constructing an overarching spatial regime that both accommodates and yet rivals the alternate spheres that spiritual movements construct under its umbrella. Both spatial configurations challenge the presumed relationships between myth and reality, religion and commerce, the ethereal and the concrete, the sacred and the secular on the levels of self, community and polity. Singapore, now deemed a model for urban development in Asia, also offers an understanding of a new post-secularity and perhaps reveals where the urbanized world is headed.
