Effects of Oil Spills on Nature

Oil spills caused by damaged tankers, pipelines or offshore oil rigs often result in immediate and long-term environmental damage that can last for decades. These oil spills cost everything they touch and become unwelcome by parts of every ecosystem they enter.

When an oil slick from a large spill reaches a beach, oil coats and clings to every rock and grain of sand. If the oil washes into coastal marshes, mangrove forests, or other wetlands, fibrous plants and grasses absorb this oil, which can damage plants and make the area unsuitable as a wildlife habitat. When oil eventually stops floating on the water's surface and begins to sink into the marine environment, it can have similar damaging effects on fragile underwater ecosystems, killing or contaminating fish and smaller organisms that are essential links in the global food chain.

Oil-covered birds are a universal symbol of environmental damage wreaked by oil spills. Sea birds that swim and dive for their food are most likely to be covered in oil following a spill. Oil spills can disrupt migratory patterns by contaminating areas where migrating birds normally stop. Oil not only makes flying impossible but also destroys birds' natural waterproofing and insulation. They often swallow oil, which can damage their internal organs and lead to death.
