

3. Marking points

3.1 Marking of lists

This applies to questions requiring a set number of responses, but for which students have provided extra responses. The general principle to be followed in such a situation is that 'right + wrong = wrong'.

Each error / contradiction negates each correct response. So, if the number of errors / contradictions equals or exceeds the number of marks available for the question, no marks can be awarded.

However, responses considered to be neutral (indicated as * in example 1) are not penalised.

Example 1: What is the pH of an acidic solution?

[1 mark]

| Student | Response | Marks awarded |
|---------|----------|---------------|
| 1 | green, 5 | 0 |
| 2 | red*, 5 | 1 |
| 3 | red*, 8 | 0 |

Example 2: Name two magnetic materials.

[2 marks]

| Student | Response | Marks awarded |
|---------|--------------------------------|---------------|
| 1 | iron, steel, copper, aluminium | 0 |

3.2 Marking of questions requiring a list

For questions requiring a specified number of responses (maximum of 10 responses), students may provide more than the specified number of responses. In such cases, the question should be marked as follows:

3.2.1 Marking questions requiring a list

When a student has provided the right number of responses, responses are marked correctly. An incorrect response is marked as incorrect. An incorrect response is a contradiction. Students may also provide more than the specified number of responses. In such cases, the question should be marked as follows:

Responses are marked as correct if a correct response is given. Responses are marked as incorrect if a correct response is given and an incorrect response is also given.

3.2.2 Marking questions requiring a list

Responses are marked as correct if a correct response is given. Responses are marked as incorrect if a correct response is given and an incorrect response is also given.
