NATIONAL PARK SERVICE JOINS INFORMATION SUPERHIGHWAY

National Park Service (NPS) Director Roger Kennedy announced today the National Park Service will be accessible on-line, via the Internet-World Wide Web (WWW), <http://www.nps.gov>, on May 22, the first day of National Park Week.

"The World Wide Web is a major research tool with endless educational applications and possibilities," said Kennedy. "The National Park Service embraces the opportunity to participate in this type of universal database of knowledge."

The WWW is a multimedia --audio, graphic and text-- information retrieval system, which uses the global network of computers that make up the Internet. The WWW utilizes software interfaces known as browsers, such as MOSAIC or NETSCAPE, to incorporate multimedia information with the touch of a mouse button.

The Web provides access to National Park Service information, including NPS' mission, its history, issues surrounding natural and cultural resources, and specific park sites.

The NPS WWW site will allow people from around the world to learn about a wide range of NPS topics from the National Trails System to the more than 60,000 properties listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

NPS' long-term goal for its Web site is to develop "home pages" for each national park area. "Home pages" will be designed to provide a brief introduction that will include general visitor information. Additionally, they will also allow users to research specific topics pertinent to the site and to the NPS.

Currently, the NPS administers 368 national parks covering more than 83 million acres in 49 states, the District of Columbia, and four territories, receiving more than 270 million visitors annually.

The system is available to individuals who have a computer, access to Internet and WWW browser software. Internet, the means to access the WWW, connects more than 20 million users in more than 50 countries daily.
