Consults in Obstetric Anesthesiology Suzanne K. W. Mankowitz, 2018-11-15 This text addresses the need for a book specifically aimed at obstetric anesthesia and covers topics such as pulmonary cardiac renal hepatic hematologic neurologic endocrine and other diseases The real anesthetic challenge arises when patients present to Labor and Delivery with unusual or complicated medical problems and in recent years a few of the larger institutions have developed an Obstetric Anesthesiology Consultation Service to prepare for the management of these patients While most pregnant women who present to Labor and Delivery require anesthetic intervention they typically meet the anesthesiologist for the first time in labor Since the majority of laboring women are healthy without significant comorbidities this does not present much of a challenge to the anesthesiologist and the anesthetic management tends to be straight forward with favorable outcomes However using this new model the anesthesiologist has the opportunity to discuss the various treatment modalities and potentially suggest diagnostic testing to be performed prior to delivery similar to the pre operative testing that is done in other surgical environments

Doctors in a Divided Society Mignon Breier, Angelique Wildschut, 2006 Many of the goals of South Africa's new democracy depend on the production of professionals who have not only the knowledge and skills to make our country globally competitive but also a commitment to working and living here Despite numerous reforms the South African health system ten years into democracy remains divided first world private care that ranks with middle income countries internationally at the one end and at the other extreme in the rural public sector in particular conditions that are superior only to the poorest of African countries Much work has been done to change medical school curricula in line with the primary health care focus of government policy and international trends towards problem based learning The student profile in medical schools is now not only more representative of the demographics of South Africa but also reveals a significant increase in female students Whether these students will stay in the country after graduating and serve where they are needed most remains to be seen Publisher's website

Public Health Promotion and Medical Education Reform, volume III Jian Chen, Xiaoyun Zeng, Zhiyong Zhang, Yasusei Kudo, Trine Fink, 2025-11-18 This Research Topic is part of the series of Public Health Promotion and Medical Education Reform Public Health Promotion and Medical Education Reform Volume I Public Health Promotion and Medical Education Reform Volume II All over the world more than 80% of medical service and public health education are conducted by graduates from local regional medical schools Therefore these schools are facing the pressing demand for better health services principally due to population growth and greater public health awareness However the traditional medical education is failing to cope with these challenges largely because of didactic teaching methods fragmented curricula and passive learning which cannot train our students to become self directed lifelong learners and qualified healthcare workers We are also very aware that simply expanding the class size of medical schools and opening new medical schools cannot meet this demand The medical school educators thus implement a series of reform across every aspect of the medical education e.g teaching content style and methodology which has been gradually deepened in many majors such as medicine nursing pharmacy and public health Otherwise the outbreak of 2019 novel coronavirus emphasizes the vital interplay of public health and medical education disciplines promoting the integration of public health content into medical education That is the better healthcare workers for the future should be responsible for not only disease diagnosis and treatment but also health promotion and disease prevention The COVID 19 pandemic reveals the urgent need for healthcare services worldwide that is outstripping the pace of healthcare workforce growth underlining the necessity of a paradigm shift in medical education Therefore the aim of the Research Topic is to provide a comprehensive overview of current reform attempts in education for healthcare workers mainly but not exclusively focusing on the high quality research studies carried out in local regional medical schools In addition it is being widely accepted that disease prevention and health promotion may be more effective in improving the health status of a population We thus greatly encourage contributions providing innovative methods and assessment of incorporation of core public health into the medical curricula Both ongoing and completed original research work is welcome Consequently areas to be covered in this Research Topic may include but are not limited to Situation and trends of public health research practice and policy Development and evaluation of public health education National and international medical education reform to produce well trained students and workers undergraduates and postgraduates local regional medical schools Implementation and evaluation of integrating public health content in the medical curricula
