Abstract: The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the physical fitness and health-related quality of life (HRQL) of sedentary middle-aged women. The study was a randomized controlled trial. The participants were randomly assigned to either a control group (n = 15) or an exercise group (n = 15). The exercise group performed a 12-week training program consisting of aerobic and strength training. The control group did not exercise. The primary outcome was the change in HRQL, measured using the SF-36 questionnaire. The secondary outcome was the change in physical fitness, measured using the 6-minute walk test. The results showed that the exercise group had a significant improvement in HRQL and physical fitness compared to the control group. The findings suggest that a 12-week training program can improve the physical fitness and HRQL of sedentary middle-aged women.

Reflections: Discovering Life in the Universe

Descriptions: This questionnaire is designed as a guide checklist of whether a student has actually mastered the performance-ideas for this chapter. It should be noted if they have. Keep in mind that these items often only a best-guess assessment of selected topics from the chapters, intended to give a general idea of how well you have mastered the chapter.

11. The gas particles inside a lower balloon, causing it to expand, will be moving at a faster (larger) rate.
12. The gas particles inside a lower balloon, causing it to contract, will be moving at a slower (smaller) rate.
13. The rate of molecular motion decreases as you go higher.

Using that model of the balloon should not depend on size, the gas particles should still move faster. Thus, think about what would happen if the gas in the balloon were hot around the burner's flame, remembering that faster gas motion means higher temperature and that the burner jet is very sensitive to temperature.
