The Best Class You Never Taught Alexis Wiggins, 2017-09-27 The best classes have a life of their own powered by student led conversations that explore texts ideas and essential questions In these classes the teacher s role shifts from star player to observer and coach as the students Think critically Work collaboratively Participate fully Behave ethically Ask and answer high level questions Support their ideas with evidence and Evaluate and assess their own work The Spider Web Discussion is a simple technique that puts this kind of class within every teacher s reach The name comes from the weblike diagram the observer makes to record interactions as students actively participate in the discussion lead and support one another s learning and build community It s proven to work across all subject areas and with all ages and you only need a little know how a rubric and paper and pencil to get started As students practice Spider Web Discussion they become stronger communicators more empathetic teammates better problem solvers and more independent learners college and career ready skills that serve them well in the classroom and beyond Educator Alexis Wiggins provides a step by step guide for the implementation of Spider Web Discussion covering everything from introducing the technique to creating rubrics for discussion self assessment to the nuts and bolts of charting the conversations and using the data collected for formative assessment She also shares troubleshooting tips ideas for assessment and group grading and the experiences of real teachers and students who use the technique to develop and share content knowledge in a way that s both revolutionary and truly inspiring

Grading Justice Kristen C. Blinne, 2021-01-11 In Grading Justice Teacher Activist Approaches to Assessment new and seasoned teachers are invited to engage with socially just approaches of assessment including practices aimed at resisting and undoing grading and assessment altogether to create more democratic grading practices and policies foregrounding the transformative potential of communication within their courses The contributions in this collection encourage readers to consider not only how educators might assess social justice work in and beyond the classroom but also to imagine what a social justice approach to grading and assessment would mean for intervening into unjust modes of teaching and learning Educators wishing to explore critical modes of grading and assessment grounded in social justice will find this book a timely and relevant pedagogical guide for their teaching and scholarship

Interest in Mathematics and Science Learning Ann Renninger, Martina Nieswandt, Suzanne Hidi, 2015-04-19 Interest in Mathematics and Science Learning edited by K Ann Renninger Martin Nieswandt and Suzanne Hidi is the first volume to assemble findings on the role of interest in mathematics and science learning As the contributors illuminate across the volume s 22 chapters interest provides a critical bridge between cognition and affect in learning and development This volume will be useful to educators researchers and policy makers especially those whose focus is mathematics science and technology education

Handbook of Educational Psychology Lyn Corno, Eric M. Anderman, 2015-07-06 The third edition of the Handbook of Educational Psychology is sponsored by Division 15 of the American Psychological Association In this volume thirty chapters address new developments in theory and research methods while honoring the legacy of the field's past. A diverse group of recognized scholars within and outside the U.S. provide integrative reviews and critical syntheses of developments in the substantive areas of psychological inquiry in education, functional processes for learning, learner readiness and development, building knowledge and subject matter expertise, and the learning and task environment. New chapters in this edition cover topics such as learning sciences, research, latent variable models, data analytics, neuropsychology, relations between emotion, motivation, and volition, EMOVO, scientific literacy, sociocultural perspectives on learning, dialogic instruction, and networked learning. Expanded treatment has been given to relevant individual differences, underlying processes, and new research on subject matter acquisition. The Handbook of Educational Psychology, Third Edition, provides an indispensable reference volume for scholars in education and the learning sciences, broadly conceived, as well as for teacher educators, practicing teachers, policy makers, and the academic libraries serving these audiences. It is also appropriate for graduate-level courses in educational psychology, human learning and motivation, the learning sciences, and psychological research methods in education and psychology.

Alternative Models of Addiction Hanna Pickard, Serge H. Ahmed, Bennett Foddy, 2015-12-07

For much of the 20th century, theories of addictive behaviour and motivation were polarized between two models. The first model viewed addiction as a moral failure for which addicts are rightly held responsible and judged accordingly. The second model, in contrast, viewed addiction as a specific brain disease caused by neurobiological adaptations occurring in response to chronic drug or alcohol use, over which addicts have no choice or control. As our capacity to observe neurobiological phenomena improved, the second model became scientific orthodoxy, increasingly dominating addiction research and informing public understandings of addiction. More recently, however, a dissenting view has emerged within addiction research, based partly on new scientific research and partly on progress in philosophical and psychological understandings of relevant mental phenomena. This view does not revert to treating addiction as a moral failure but nonetheless holds that addictive behaviour is fundamentally motivated by choice and subject to at least a degree of voluntary control. On this alternative model of addiction, addictive behaviour is an instrumental means to ends that are desired by the individual, although much controversy exists with respect to the rationality or irrationality of these ends, the degree and nature of the voluntary control of addictive behaviour and motivation, the explanation of the difference between addictive and non-addictive behaviour and motivation, and lastly, the extent to which addictive behaviour and motivation is correctly characterised as pathological or diseased. This research topic includes papers in the traditions of neuroscience, psychology, philosophy, law, and social science that explore alternative understandings of addiction.
