Understanding West Africa's Ebola Epidemic Ibrahim Abdullah, Ismail Rashid, 2017-10-15 From 2013 to 2015 over 11 000 people across West Africa lost their lives to the deadliest outbreak of the Ebola virus in history Crucially this epidemic marked the first time the virus was able to spread beyond rural areas to major cities overturning conventional assumptions about its epidemiology With backgrounds ranging from development to disease control the contributors to this volume some of them based in countries affected by the Ebola epidemic consider the underlying factors that shaped this unprecedented outbreak While championing the heroic efforts of local communities and aid workers in halting the spread of the disease the contributors also reveal deep structural problems in both the countries and humanitarian agencies involved which hampered the efforts to contain the epidemic Alarming they show that little has been learned from these events with health provision remaining underfunded and poorly equipped to deal with future outbreaks Such issues they argue reflect the wider challenges we face in tackling epidemic disease in an increasingly interconnected world Governing Intellectual Property Rights Within Publicly Funded Biobanks Rajam Neethu, 2019-06-21 Governing Intellectual Property Rights Within Publicly Funded Biobanks R Neethu The boom in biobanks and health databases as research infrastructures have evoked various legal and ethical debates Since then numerous new developments have emerged such as digitalization big data research and artificial intelligence which has important implications for biobank based research and collaborations This new paradigm offers new legal challenges for commercial involvement particularly within a publicly funded setting In this innovative book the author shows that securing maximum social benefit out of the knowledge emanating from the use of biobank resources lies in managing intellectual property inputs and outputs effectively in keeping with the values core to such research Focusing on the challenges of involving intellectual property rights IPRs particularly in the precompetitive phase of biobank based research the book offers an extensive understanding of the role of different IPRs and identifies the gaps in the law and its implications for biobanks The analysis covers important aspects in relation to biobanks such as Digital integration and biomedical data storage Ownership of biological samples Commercialization and benefit sharing Partnership models Public sector research Disposition of samples Consent Cross border exchange Trade secrecy Privacy Regulatory stewardship Business strategies Ethical considerations over biological resources Patenting of inventions relating to personalized medicine Ethical parameters within patent law and Rights regarding genetic data and databases The book includes observations case studies and interviews conducted by the author In conclusion the author offers cogent

recommendations for legal interoperability of IP rules and research practices designed to enhance the ability of biobanks to share access and reuse data This book is the first of its kind to explore the organizational and legislative choices for biobanks particularly while engaging in the protection of research results and technology transfer within a publicly funded setting It will be of substantial interest to all stakeholders in biobanking especially policymakers biobankers and researchers working in the field of health law as well as for legal practitioners academics and patient interest groups The Indian National Bibliography ,2017-10 Journal of Economic Literature ,2014 Indian National Bibliography B. studies with similar topics namely the Matthew effect in relation to citations or price winning will be reviewed Finally a discussion on the research state regarding the Matthew effect is warranted It will become clear that research in relation to this topic must overcome some hurdles The measurement of status and quality both variables who are anchored in the Matthew effect is difficult Furthermore the question of cause and effect between status and delivered quality needs to be addressed This work ends with a conclusive section and a possible outlook for future research
