From Economics to Political Economy Tim B. Thornton, 2016-07-22 The discipline of economics has been increasingly criticized for its inability to illuminate the workings of the real world and to provide reliable policy guidance for the major economic and social challenges of our time A central problem in contemporary economics and a problem from which many of its other failings flow is its lack of plurality By a lack of plurality it is meant that contemporary economics lacks diversity in its methods theories epistemology and methodology It is also meant that economics has become far less interdisciplinary From Economics to Political Economy offers an explanation as to why economics has become so determinedly non pluralistic and also gives considerable attention to exploring and evaluating promising strategies for reform These strategies include developing a pluralist economics under the label of political economy within other social science departments such as departments of politics Along the way the reader will learn about the worldwide student movement seeking greater pluralism in economics encounter some dramatic case studies in intellectual suppression gain a fuller sense of the nature of contemporary economics and explore the relationship between economics and other social sciences This book is of interest to any social scientist particularly those with interests in economics and politics Study Guide, Principles of

Princip Microeconomics Test B N. Gregory Mankiw, Penny Kugler, 2000-08 Rich Country, Poor Country Benjamin F. Bobo, 2005-04-30 In this series of essays that span over 20 years of research Benjamin Bobo builds the case for multinational corporations to take an active role in combating poverty around the world Citing sobering statistics for example three fourths of the world's nations are classified as Third World and four fifths of the world's people live in these nations Bobo argues that huge corporate entities not only have the wherewithal but an obligation to alleviate the suffering that results from a lack of economic resources and opportunity Through these provocative and forward looking essays he presents a theoretical and practical framework for multinationals to stimulate economic development in the Third World providing access to capital entrepreneurial expertise and emerging technologies In a bold challenge to conventional thinking about wealth creation and strategic decision making Bobo applies such concepts as profit satisficing and stakeholder givebacks and proposes an agenda for change that begins in business schools the intellectual training ground for multinational managers with increased emphasis on sustainability and human development The net result he argues will be a world in which both producers and consumers benefit
