

1. Motivation

Previous attempts at introducing Moodle to pronunciation and phonetics courses have confirmed its reliability and usefulness [1], [4]. However, many issues remain unaddressed:

3. Displaying phonetic/IPA symbols

	Image	PDF	Flash	Unicode
no need for external plug-ins		✓	✓	✓
platform agnostic		✓	✓	✓
easily embeddable in HTML		✓	✓	✓
lossless scaling		✓	✓	✓
questions and feedback in quizzes		✓	✓	✓
answers in quizzes		✓	✓	✓

4. Styling Unicode for transcription

Moodle offers a limited number of default fonts for use within the platform. Unfortunately, none of them fully supports IPA symbols, which means that they may differ from the symbols depicted in textbooks on phonetic transcription. To remedy this situation, external web fonts can be used. This can be achieved through simple HTML markup:

phonetic transcription goes here

Notes on the markup:

1. `...` separates the part of the text to be styled
2. `style="..."` contains styling information
3. `font-family` declares which font to use
 - a) `Chango SIL` is the most comprehensive font covering all IPA symbols including boldface and italics
 - b) `Chango SIL` is similar to the above but offers symbols only in Roman typeface
 - c) `Dejavu Sans` is a sans-serif font supporting all IPA symbols

The ~~screened~~ phonetic keyboard plugin for Moodle was written in PHP and JavaScript on the basis of existing Moodle functionalities. The module is compatible with Moodle 2.0 onwards and requires only a simple installation. A ready-to-use version of the module is available (see of change here: <https://github.com/aperinski/moodle-phonetic-keyboard>). Simply ask your Moodle admin to add it in the `question/type/` directory. You will then be able to select the IPA transcription question type in your quiz question bank.

2. Our approach

Educational features of Moodle quizzes

Feedback for wrong answers

- pre-programmed
- specific for each wrong answer
- hints at the solution without giving away the answer
- just-in-time

Feedback for correct answers

- generic
- provides additional info to instruct and entertain
- together with wrong answer feedback creates a personalised effective learning environment [2], [3]

Monitoring and control

- diagnostic tool for data-driven decisions
- error report per item helps adjust quiz difficulty level
- errors and time spent on each item help find struggling students
- quizzes may open, close and grade students' work automatically
- reusable between groups

5. Preparation of quiz questions

Manual (within Moodle interface)

Moodle offers a rich built-in question editor. Unfortunately, while functional, the interface of the default editor is cumbersome.

Semi-automated (external editing + import)

Large question sets can be prepared externally, and parts of the process can be automated. This can be done by using a standard word processor, e.g. MS Word, without any programming skills. Example workflow below:

Resources needed:

- a wordfile
- an automated transcriber
- an MS Word answer template
- an MS Word template for Moodle XML

Step 1:

Feed the wordfile into the transcriber.

Step 2:

Paste the words and their transcriptions into the answer template. Edit as needed.

Step 3:

Compile questions for import. Use MS Word's Mailing feature on the XML template and the saved answer sheet. Save as Unicode text.

Step 4:

Import questions using the Moodle quiz editor.
