Media Architecture Alexander Wiethoff, Heinrich Hussmann, 2017-02-20 The augmentation of urban spaces with technology commonly referred to as Media Architecture has found increasing interest in the scientific community within the last few years At the same time architects began to use digital media as a new material apart from concrete glass or wood to create buildings and urban structures Simultaneously Human Computer Interaction HCI researchers began to exploit the interaction opportunities between users and buildings and to bridge the gaps between interface information medium and architecture As an example they extended architectural structures with interactive light emitting elements on their outer shell thereby transforming the surfaces of these structures into giant public screens At the same time the wide distribution of mobile devices and the coverage of mobile internet allow manifold interaction opportunities between open data and citizens thereby enabling the internet of things in the public domain However the appropriate distribution of information to all citizens is still cumbersome and a mutual dialogue not always successful i.e. who gets what data and when In this book we therefore provide a deeper investigation of Using Information and Media as Construction Material with media architecture as an input and output medium Timetable University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, 1959
