Animal Sonar Systems R. Busnel,2013-06-29 Thirteen years have gone by since the first international meeting on Animal Sonar Systems was held in Frascati Italy in 1966 Since that time almost 900 papers have been published on its theme The first symposium was vital as it was the starting point for new research lines whose goal was to design and develop technological systems with properties approaching optimal biological systems There have been highly significant developments since then in all domains related to biological sonar systems and in their applications to the engineering field The time had therefore come for a multidisciplinary integration of the information gathered not only on the evolution of systems used in animal echolocation but on systems theory behavior and neurobiology signal to noise ratio masking signal processing and measures observed in certain species against animal sonar systems Modern electronics technology and systems theory which have been developed only since 1974 now allow designing sophisticated sonar and radar systems applying principles derived from biological systems At the time of the Frascati meeting integrated circuits and technologies exploiting computer science were not well enough developed to yield advantages now possible through use of real time analysis leading to among other things a definition of target temporal characteristics as biological sonar systems are able to do All of these new technical developments necessitate close cooperation between engineers and biologists within the framework of new experiments which have been designed particularly in the past five years The Correlative Brain Jos J. Eggermont,2013-03-13 This monograph is the result of a course given to graduate students and to the faculty of the Dept of Medical Physics and Biophysics of Nijmegen University Nijmegen The Netherlands in the fall of 1984 and 1985 The course was intended to put together experiment theory and analysis methods in order to study neural interaction and coding in the brain The following pages give a survey of neural interaction and its experimental substrate correlated neural activity The basic reason for restricting myself to vertebrate brains was to keep the material concise As the text developed however it became more of a review than a research monograph in the attempt to balance theoretical and experimental aspects in brain research Consequently the book can be read from various points of view that of requiring an overview of theories and theoretical principles or an overview of experimental studies in neural interaction and the methods that can be used or with the conviction that theory and experiment cannot be separated In the latter case the book should be read from beginning to end A way to read through the theoretical sections and the experimental sections of the book is presented in the following flow chart Theory Chap 2 Chap 4 Chap 5 ___ Introduction Chap 1 Chap 10 Chap 14 Experim Chap 3 Chap 6 Chap 7 Chap 8 Chap
