Thesis

Upon further analysis, it is evident that in the two stories, "The Metamorphosis" and "Elf", the relationships between the main characters and their fathers are solely based on the abilities that their sons have to make money.

THE METAMORPHOSIS

elf

Example 1

For instance, by looking at the relationship between Gregor and his father, one can see that Gregor's father is distant and unaffectionate. His father is dependent on him to sustain the household and once Gregor is unable to do so, his father sees him as a useless person.

Example 2

In the movie, "Elf", Buddy and his father share a similar relationship that Gregor and his father have. They both are unapproachable to their sons and depend on them to make money and support the household. For example, when Buddy is first trying to meet his dad, he wants nothing to do with him; However, his dad uses Buddy and his story to publish and make money off of it.

Compare

Conclusion

It is evident that in both of these stories, the characters do not have the typical father-son relationship with their fathers. Upon further analysis, it is clear that the Marxism theory plays a major role in both "The Metamorphosis" and "Elf". Because Buddy and Gregor cannot contribute anything to society, such as money, their fathers see them as unavailing.

After analyzing both stories and relationships, we can conclude that they are both clear examples of how our society is today. Men are expected to work and make all the money to carry the house, and when they cannot do so, they are shamed by society and made to think that they are useless.
