

Building the JavaScript Library

The first step in building the JavaScript library is to create a new file named `library.js` in the `src` directory. This file will contain the code for the library, which will be used by the application.

Next, we need to define the `Library` class. This class will be responsible for managing the state of the library and providing methods for interacting with it.

class Library {
  constructor() {
    this.books = [];
    this.currentBook = null;
  }

  addBook(title, author) {
    this.books.push({ title, author });
  }

  removeBook(title) {
    this.books = this.books.filter(book => book.title !== title);
  }

  getBook(title) {
    return this.books.find(book => book.title === title);
  }

  setCurrentBook(title) {
    this.currentBook = this.getBook(title);
  }
}
```

The `Library` class has a constructor that initializes the `books` array and the `currentBook` property. It also has methods for adding, removing, and retrieving books, as well as setting the current book.

Next, we need to create a `LibraryView` class. This class will be responsible for rendering the library's state and handling user input.

```
class LibraryView {
  constructor() {
    this.render();
  }

  render() { // Render the library's state

  handleClick(event) {
    // Handle user input
  }
}
```

The `LibraryView` class has a constructor that calls the `render` method. The `render` method is responsible for rendering the library's state, and the `handleClick` method is responsible for handling user input.
