

Operation - Crab Steer Selected

Note: The illustrations shown are for the purpose of circuit explanation only. Actual installations may not be as shown.

Fig 5. (H3-9) With the spools of steer mode valve V in the crab steer position (solenoids B and C energised) there is a hydraulic connection between the steer unit S and the front and rear power track rods F and R. When the steering wheel is turned (right turn shown), oil is fed to the rear power track rod R and the displaced oil is fed to the front power track rod F via the valve spools. The front power track rod turns the wheels in the same direction as the rear wheels, causing the machine to crab to the right. Displaced oil returns to tank.

If the steering wheel is turned to the left, the oil flow is reversed and the machine will crab in the opposite direction.
