

A photograph showing the interior of a washing machine with the front panel removed. The large, circular drum is visible, featuring two circular ventilation grilles and a central green circular cap. Below the drum, the mechanical components are exposed, including the motor, various pulleys, and rollers. Red arrows and a red box are used to highlight specific parts: two arrows point to drum rollers, one points to the motor assembly, and another points to an idler pulley. A red box encloses the motor and its associated drive mechanism.
