Learning Marketplace, The: East Meets West In Singapore Prem Kumar, 2015-09-23 In Asia we are witnessing an era where the pendulum of power seems to be swaying towards the East with the rising strength of China and India and Singapore is at the crossroads between these populous nations Although Singapore may appear to be the most westernized country in Asia she is nevertheless a multi cultural Asian society Having the most open economy in the world Singapore is plugged into the global marketplace of education and learning The development of human capital is used as a strategic economic driver to internationalize and transform education for sustainable competitive advantage Singapore's education system regarded as one of the consistently best performing in the world offers a unique opportunity to explore issues where eastern and western culture values beliefs learning and knowledge systems converge clash and at times diverge This book is meant to extend our knowledge on the role of learning often overlooked and taken for granted as the air that we breathe but which constantly transforms our lives and reshapes societies It is the first book that deals with the dichotomy of east and west going beyond the traditional learning and education framework to other areas such as economic socio cultural political and technological dimensions that impact Singapore It puts together key topical issues and explores the underbelly of how a small resourceless independent city state like Singapore stays ahead of the learning curve even while facing increasingly intense global competition where the discovery and emergence of new systems for empowerment and independence and the resulting creation of new knowledge and modes of communication are challenging traditional boundaries between the virtual and real world

Environmental Pollution and the Media Glenn D. Hook, Libby Lester, Meng Ji, Kingsley Edney, Chris G. Pope, Luli van der Does-Ishikawa, 2017-04-07 This book offers a theoretically informed empirical investigation of national media reporting and political discourse on environmental issues in Australia China and Japan It illuminates the risks harms and responsibilities associated with climate change through an analysis of pollution adopting an interdisciplinary approach drawing on both the social sciences and humanities A particular strength of the work is the detailed analysis of the data using a range of both quantitative and qualitative techniques enabling the authors to reveal in rich and compelling detail the complex relationship between risk and responsibility in the climate change discourse The case studies of Australia China and Japan are set in the current literature as well as in the historical context of climate change in these three countries The analysis of the media discourse on the Great Barrier Reef in Australia demonstrates how the mining of coal for overseas markets has led to devastating harm to the life of the reef A critical discussion of the Chinese documentary Under the Dome shows how this medium has played a crucial role in building awareness of the harm from atmospheric pollution among the citizens shaping attitudes and promoting action The first case study of Japan elucidates how cross border atmospheric pollution from China forges a chain of responsibility for responding to climate change running from the state to society The other case study of Japan demonstrates how smart cities have emerged as a way to mitigate the risks and harms of climate change The Conclusion draws together the similarities and differences in how climate change is addressed in the three countries In all Environmental Pollution and the Media Political Discourses of Risk and Responsibility in Australia China and Japan uncovers the dynamics of the triadic relationship among risk harm and climate change in Australia China and Japan By so doing the book makes an original and timely contribution to understanding comparative media discourse and political debates on climate change Research Anthology on Social Media's Influence on Government, Politics, and Social
