Technology and Mathematics Sven Ove Hansson, 2018-10-24 This volume is the first extensive study of the historical and philosophical connections between technology and mathematics Coverage includes the use of mathematics in ancient as well as modern technology devices and machines for computation cryptology mathematics in technological education the epistemology of computer mediated proofs and the relationship between technological and mathematical computability The book also examines the work of such historical figures as Gottfried Wilhelm Leibniz Charles Babbage Ada Lovelace and Alan Turing

Show Me the Evidence Ron Haskins, Greg Margolis, 2014-12-01 The first comprehensive history of the Obama administration's evidence based initiatives From its earliest days the Obama administration planned and enacted several initiatives to fund social programs based on rigorous evidence of success Ron Haskins and Greg Margolis tell the story of six spanning preschool and K 12 education teen pregnancy employment and training health and community based programs Readers will appreciate the fast moving descriptions of the politics and policy debates that shaped these federal programs and the analysis of whether they will truly reshape federal social policy and greatly improve its impacts on the nation's social problems Based on interviews with 134 individuals including advocates officials at the Office of Management and Budget and the Domestic Policy Council Congressional staff and officials in the federal agencies administering the initiatives as well as Congressional and administration documents and news accounts the authors examine each of the six initiatives in separate chapters The story of each initiative includes a review of the social problem the initiative addresses the genesis and enactment of the legislation that authorized the initiative and the development of the procedures used by the administration to set the evidence standard and evaluation requirements including the requirements for grant applications and awarding of grants

Hello World Hannah Fry, 2018-09-18 Shortlisted for the 2018 Baillie Gifford Prize and the 2018 Royal Society Investment Science Book Prize A beautifully accessible guide One of the best books yet written on data and algorithms Times UK If you were accused of a crime who would you rather decide your sentence a mathematically consistent algorithm incapable of empathy or a compassionate human judge prone to bias and error What if you want to buy a driverless car and must choose between one programmed to save as many lives as possible and another that prioritizes the lives of its own passengers And would you agree to share your family's full medical history if you were told that it would help researchers find a cure for cancer These are just some of the dilemmas that we are beginning to face as we approach the age of the algorithm when it feels as if the machines reign supreme Already these lines of code are telling us what to watch where to go whom to date and even whom to send to jail But as we rely on algorithms to automate big important decisions in crime justice healthcare transportation and money they raise questions about what we want our world to look like What matters most Helping doctors with diagnosis or preserving privacy Protecting victims of crime or preventing innocent people being falsely accused Hello World takes us on a tour through the good the bad and the downright ugly of the algorithms that surround us on a daily basis Mathematician Hannah Fry reveals their inner workings showing us how algorithms are written and implemented and demonstrates the ways in which human bias can literally be written into the code By weaving in relatable real world stories with accessible explanations of the underlying mathematics that power algorithms Hello World helps us to determine their power expose their limitations and examine whether they really are improvement on the human systems they replace Teachers, Teaching, and Reform Ralph P. Ferretti, James Hiebert, 2017-12-14 Comprised of contributions from distinguished education scholars Teachers Teaching and Reform takes a critical look at evidence about systemic efforts to identify excellent teachers and promote excellent teaching practices Organized to include diverse and often contrasting perspectives on the topic this book provides insight into some of the most vexing historical issues affecting the policies that shape current reform initiatives focused on teachers teaching and educational outcomes Educational scholars policy makers instructors and graduate students will come away with a keen understanding of different perspectives about the assessment of teachers teaching and teacher education programs as well as strategies for improving educational outcomes for students

Using Neurophysiological Signals that Reflect Cognitive or Affective State Anne-Marie Brouwer, Thorsten O. Zander, Jan B. F. van Erp, 2015-07-27 What can we learn from spontaneously occurring brain and other physiological signals about an individual s cognitive and affective state and how can we make use of this information One line of research that is actively involved with this question is Passive Brain Computer Interfaces BCI To date most BCIs are aimed at assisting patients for whom brain signals could form an alternative output channel as opposed to more common human output channels like speech and moving the hands However brain signals possibly in combination with other physiological signals also form an output channel above and beyond the more usual ones they can potentially provide continuous online information about an individual s cognitive and affective state without the need of conscious or effortful communication The provided information could be used in a number of ways Examples include monitoring cognitive workload through EEG and skin conductance for adaptive automation or using ERPs in response to errors to correct for a behavioral response While Passive BCIs make use of online neuro physiological responses and close the interaction cycle between a user and a computer system neuro physiological responses can also be used in an offline fashion Examples of this include detecting amygdala responses for neuromarketing and measuring EEG and pupil dilation as indicators of mental effort for optimizing information systems The described field of applied neuro physiology can strongly benefit from high quality scientific studies that control for confounding factors and use proper comparison conditions Another area of relevance is ethics ranging from dubious product claims acceptance of the technology by the general public privacy of users to possible effects that these kinds of applications may have on society as a whole In this Research Topic we aimed to publish studies of the highest scientific quality that are directed towards applications that utilize spontaneously effortlessly generated neurophysiological signals brain and or other physiological signals reflecting cognitive or affective state We especially welcomed studies that describe specific real world applications demonstrating a significant benefit compared to standard applications We also invited original new kinds of proposed applications in this area as well as comprehensive review articles that point out what is and what is not possible according to scientific standards in this field Finally we welcomed manuscripts on the ethical issues that are involved Connected to the Research Topic was a workshop held on June 6 during the Fifth International Brain Computer Interface Meeting June 3 7 2013 Asilomar California that brought together a diverse group of people who were working in this field We discussed the state of the art and formulated major challenges as reflected in the first paper of the Research Topic
