N 2 Ett Memorandum

Cathryn Costello, Mark Freedland

N 2 Ett Memorandum:

Adventures in Chaos Douglas J. Macdonald, Robert James Nelson, 1992 Can or should the United States try to promote reform in client states in the Third World This question which reverberates through American foreign policy is at the heart of Adventures in Chaos A faltering friendly state in danger of falling to hostile forces presents the U S with three options withdraw bolster the existing government or try to reform it Douglas Macdonald defines the circumstances that call these policy options into play combining an analysis of domestic politics in the U S cognitive theories of decision making and theories of power relations drawn from sociology economics and political science He examines the conditions that promote the reformist option and then explores strategies for improving the success of reformist intervention in the future In order to identify problems in this policy and to propose solutions Macdonald focuses on three case studies of reformist intervention in Asia China 1946 1948 the Philippines 1950 1953 and Vietnam 1961 1963 Striking similarities in these cases suggest that such policy dilemmas are a function of the global role played by the U S especially during the Cold War Though this role is changing Macdonald foresees future applications for the lessons his study offers A challenge to the conventional wisdom on reformist intervention Adventures in Chaos through extensive archival research displays a theoretical and historical depth often lacking in treatments of the subject

Migrants at Work Cathryn Costello, Mark Freedland, 2014-10-30 There is a highly significant and under considered intersection and interaction between migration law and labour law Labour lawyers have tended to regard migration law as generally speaking outside their purview and migration lawyers have somewhat similarly tended to neglect labour law The culmination of a collaborative project on Migrants at Work funded by the John Fell Fund the Society of Legal Scholars and the Research Centre at St John's College Oxford this volume brings together distinguished legal and migration scholars to examine the impact of migration law on labour rights and how the regulation of migration increasingly impacts upon employment and labour relations Examining and clarifying the interactions between migration migration law and labour law contributors to the volume identify the many ways that migration law as currently designed divides the objectives of labour law privileging concerns about the labour supply and demand over worker protective concerns In addition migration law creates particular forms of status which affect employment relations thereby dividing the subjects of labour law Chapters cover the labour laws of the UK Australia Ireland Israel Italy Germany Sweden and the US References are also made to discrete practices in Brazil France Greece New Zealand Mexico Poland and South Africa These countries all host migrants and have developed systems of migration law reflecting very different trajectories Some are traditional countries of immigration and settlement migration while others have traditionally been countries of emigration but now import many workers There are nonetheless common features in their immigration law which have a profound impact on labour law for instance in their shared contemporary shift to using temporary labour migration programmes Further chapters examine EU and international law on migration labour rights human rights and human trafficking and smuggling developing cross jurisdictional and multi level perspectives Written by leading scholars of labour law migration law and migration studies this book provides a diverse and multidisciplinary approach to this field of legal interaction of interest to academics policymakers legal practitioners trade unions and migrants groups alike California.
