Landed On Black:

A Genealogical and Heraldic History of the Landed Gentry of Great Britain Sir Bernard Burke, 1914 White Land, Black Labor Charles L. Flynn, Jr., 1999-03-01 The society of the postbellum South was built upon two interweaving but ultimately irreconcilable systems a racist caste system and an economic class system The caste system was supposed to assure that all whites would be equals above the underclass of black laborers But the class system that emerged in the years after the war placed lower class whites in the same economic position as the emancipated slaves a situation totally at odds with prevailing white ideology In White Land Black Labor Charles Flynn examines the interplay of the caste and class systems of Reconstruction Georgia revealing how the efforts of both the planters and poorer whites to retain blacks in a position of subservience assured that in this state as in the South as a whole there would be little significant economic progress until well into the next century The caste faith of the white Georgians encouraged landowning employers to seek increased exploitation rather than economic growth at the same time it motivated landless whites to focus their energies on the greater subordination of black laborers rather than on achieving equality with wealthier whites Despite the facade of southern caste faith the constitutional amendments adopted during Reconstruction assured that blacks could not legally be treated as a separate laboring class As a result the measures employed by the planters to increase their control over the black laborers applied to a growing number of landless whites as well With blacks more free and whites more oppressed than the prevailing social ideology deemed appropriate the distinction between the system of class division among whites and the caste barrier that separated blacks and whites began to fracture leading to political dissent in the nineteenth century and setting the stage for the demagogue politicians of the twentieth century Federal Register, 2001-11 British battles on land and sea James Grant, 1899 A Directory to the market towns, villages, gentlemen's seats and other noted places in Ireland ...
