On Multiple Source Constructions in Language Change Hendrik De Smet, Lobke Ghesquière, Freek Van de Velde, 2015-11-15 In much writing on language change there is a tacit assumption that change operates on a single source construction to produce an innovative target construction This volume challenges this assumption by showing that many changes involve interactions between multiple source constructions In fact the involvement of multiple source constructions is unexceptional The phenomenon is observed in phonology morphology syntax and semantics It is seen in language internal change as well as in contact induced change Interactions may obtain between independent but historically related constructions as well as between historically unrelated constructions The contributions to this volume on the one hand present specific case studies on changes involving multiple source constructions in various domains of grammar and in a variety of languages On the other hand they discuss how such changes can be accommodated in current theoretical models of language Originally published in Studies in Language Vol 37 3 2013
