What's the Weather Like?

Look outside. What is the weather like? It might be sunny or rainy. It might be stormy or windy. It might be hot or cold. Weather is what the atmosphere is like at a given time and place. Weather can change from day to day, or even from hour to hour.

Meteorologists are scientists who study weather. They measure factors such as air temperature, amount of rain, and how much precipitation falls from the sky. They analyze their measurements to make a weather forecast.

Weather reports tell you what the weather will be. They help you plan your day. For example, if the weather is cold, you need to wear warm clothing to go to school. If the weather is sunny and warm, you could wear a t-shirt and shorts.

Weather reports are helpful in other ways. Pilots cannot fly to severe weather. Farmers use weather reports to help schedule flights. Weather reports also help farmers know when to plant their crops. They need to know when the weather is dry or wet to protect their crops from freezing or flooding in cold weather.
