Culinary Colonialism, Caribbean Cookbooks, and Recipes for National Independence Keja L. Valens, 2024-02-16 Women across the Caribbean have been writing reading and exchanging cookbooks since at least the turn of the nineteenth century. These cookbooks are about much more than cooking. Through cookbooks Caribbean women and a few men have shaped embedded and contested colonial and domestic orders delineated the contours of independent national cultures and transformed tastes for independence into flavors of domestic autonomy. Culinary Colonialism Caribbean Cookbooks and Recipes for National Independence integrates new documents into the Caribbean archive and presents them in a rare pan Caribbean perspective. The first book length consideration of Caribbean cookbooks Culinary Colonialism joins a growing body of work in Caribbean studies and food studies that considers the intersections of food writing race class gender and nationality. A selection of recipes culled from the archive that Culinary Colonialism assembles allows readers to savor the confluence of culinary traditions and local specifications that connect and distinguish national cuisines in the Caribbean.

The Wise Team Coach Paul Lawrence, 2025-03-31 Based on three years of meta research into team effectiveness and coaching this book explores some of the most common contradictions and debates around the topic of team coaching and presents readers with a framework to enable them to explore this field for themselves reflecting on their own experience and drawing their own conclusions. Team coaching in organisations is still a relatively new discipline with industry associations having only recently defined their first attempts to frame team coaching in the form of standard skills and competencies. As a new discipline we still see multiple perspectives on what team coaching is and how it should best be practiced. The literature abounds with paradox and contradictions. Within this book Lawrence delves into these contradictions and debates providing a framework to encourage readers to construct their own practice model. Covering both theory and practical application this will be a useful guide for both experienced team coaches and those entering the field.

Zamparini,2013-06-05 Our world is continuously changing as new technologies are developed demographic patterns evolve and new social and political configurations emerge However most people would agree that not unlike the time of the Industrial Revolution the rate of change has accelerated over the last few decades It is certainly the case of many economic activities where the trend towards globalization supported by a faster diffusion of knowledge and information economies of scale the opening of borders and improved transport networks has induced a spatial redistribution of production and ownership Until recently the concomitant economic growth eased the way towards the necessary reorganization but at the same time created additional environmental and transport problems This phenomenon is pervasive all around the globe but it particularly affects the European continent which is still fragmented by administrative cultural and linguistic differences national boundaries and rivalries In this context the slow but persistent drive towards market integration and deregulation makes Europe an extraordinary laboratory for politicians economic researchers and especially for transport analysts
