Morrow, 1994 Children's Books in Print, 2007, 2006 Health Information in a Changing World W. Bernard

Luckenbill, Barbara Froling Immroth, 2010-06-14 This holistic guide explains how school librarians and teachers can successfully integrate relevant health concepts and life skills throughout the curriculum for students K through 12. In the United States, convenience food and soft drink based diets, increasingly sedentary lifestyles, and obesity have become common in youth culture. The importance of health education merits integration throughout school curricula; unfortunately, research shows that many teachers do not feel prepared to teach health issues within their subject areas. This book will encourage all librarians and teachers, no matter their specific area of instruction, to include health lessons in their teaching. Health Information in a Changing World: Practical Approaches for Teachers, Schools, and School Librarians provides a complete action plan for librarians and teachers who want to provide better health information to students and their caregivers. It contains an extensive discussion of teaching health within curriculum areas such as literature, history, and biography, art, science, and mathematics, industrial technology, and agriculture. Tips on accessing and evaluating health information in print and electronic media are presented, as well as practical suggestions for effective instructional methods, including ideas on conducting demonstrations, field trips, speaker programs, and online distance education. New findings regarding teaching effectiveness assessment are also presented. California Science, 2007 California Science, 2008 Developmental Cognitive Science Goes to School Nancy L. Stein, Stephen Raudenbush, 2013-08-15 This book addresses core issues related to school learning and the use of developmental cognitive science models to improve school-based instruction. The contributors comprise a veritable who's who of leading researchers and scientists who are broadly trained in developmental psychology, cognitive science, economics, sociology, statistics, and physical science and who are using basic learning theories from their respective disciplines to create better learning environments in school settings. Developmental Cognitive Science Goes to School presents evidence-based studies that describe models of complex learning within specific subject area disciplines, focuses on domain knowledge and how this knowledge is structured in different domains across the curriculum, gives critical attention to the topic of the ability to overcome errors and misconceptions, addresses models that should be used to begin instruction for populations of children who normally fail at schooling. This is a must-read volume for all researchers, students, and professionals interested in evidence-based educational practices and issues related to domain-specific teaching and learning.
