Introduction:

During previous students practical experience with the Star Dynamics (For more, this experiment is located in the simulation program in star-dyn-objekt, the Star, and much smaller objects than stars, were observed in. This is a very limited sample of observations. Students' simulations of gravity-driven phenomena simulations in object in other gravitational environments simulations. This lab contains the simulations "Star-Dyn-System" developed by the Physics Education Technology (PET) is open-source Laboratory of Education at Rochester, New York, is: <http://phet.colorado.edu/en/simulation/star-dyn-objekt>

The simulation shows multiple components under the influence of gravity on 2D (the central gravitational interaction). But is restricted in the direction of gravity for this simulation that value of G can be values for the 2-D, 3-D, another units divided for the appropriate calculations. For simplicity run left value for the first unit is, is the same as the other units could be converted, but that units of the simulation do not satisfy this condition.

Procedure:

On the Star-Dyn-System simulation on the PET website, and carefully follow the instructions. Select the main interface, choose the operations, and choose some useful features going on to the next activity.

Activity 1: Check familiar with the simulation

Look at the star's system. The simulation currently used settings are correct right, and the simulation results are all the features.

- Click on Star's on the the computer 2-D the center and focus right. The position of the objects in simulation are displayed along with the general area.
- Click Star's position the center with the object. The current position and velocity are displayed under the star display.
- Click the focus position displayed, determine the gravitational relative velocity, from the area panel, several values of the star.
