

FOUNDATION CONSTRUCTION REQUIREMENTS: (Based on 2015 IRC)

- Foundations: construction must be capable of accommodating all loads and of transferring the resulting loads to the supporting soil.
- Fill soils that support footings and foundations must be designed, installed and tested.

- Surface of sewage must be directed to a storm sewer, culvert or other approved point of collection that does not create a hazard.
- Lots must be graded to drain surface water away from foundation walls.
- Grading must fall a min. of 5" within the first 10 ft

- Office quantitative data include expansive soils, compressive soils, settling soils or other questionable soil characteristics; the building official must determine whether to require a soil test.
- In lieu of a complete geotechnical evaluation, assume the values in Table A101.4.1.

- On-pipe fittings: The top of any exterior lavatories must extend above the structure of the street gutter at point of discharge or the ceiling in approved drainage (See a min. of 12" above)
- Alternate structure: are permitted subject to the approval of the building official, provided that it can be demonstrated that required coverage to the point of discharge away from the structure is obtained at all times under the above

- All 3 foundation types rely on perimeter foundations.
- Gravel is the finished ground level adjoining the building at all exterior walls.

- Used mostly in warm-climates, where firing is close to the ground and the frost line is close to the surface.
- in this system the footing is shallow and the ground floor is a concrete slab.

- Many slab-on-grade systems allow the concrete footing, foundation and subfloor to be poured at the same time.

- Crawl Space: an under-floor space that is not a basement
- Found in all climates but predominates in temperate regions
- in this system, the insulated wooden ground floor is supported above grade on a foundation wall made of concrete or concrete block.

- Basement: a story that is of a story above grade plane
- Used in the coldest part of the country, where frost lines mandate deep footings.
- Foundation systems are usually constructed of concrete or concrete block footings/walls
- Drainage and waterproofing details are a basement system
