A very small percentage of people may experience a seizure when exposed to certain visual images, including flashing lights or patterns that may appear in video games. Even people who have no history of seizures or epilepsy may have an undiagnosed condition that can cause these "photosensitive epileptic seizures" while watching video games.

These seizures may have a variety of symptoms, including light-headedness, altered vision, eye or face twitching, jerking or shaking of arms or legs, disorientation, confusion, or momentary loss of awareness. Seizures may also cause loss of consciousness or convulsions that can lead to injury from falling down or striking nearby objects.

Immediately stop playing and consult a doctor if you experience any of these symptoms. Please do not drink alcohol or use other substances that affect symptoms. If you experience any of these symptoms, stop playing and consult your doctor. The risk of photosensitive epileptic seizures may be reduced by taking the following precautions: Do not play for long periods of time. Do not play in a dark room. Do not play at night. Do not play when you are tired or stressed. Do not play when you are drinking alcohol or taking medication.

If you or any of your relatives have a history of seizures or epilepsy, consult a doctor before treatment.
