Policing and Boundaries in a Violent Society Guy Lamb, 2022-01-31 This book explores how social and territorial boundaries have influenced the approaches and practices of the South Africa Police Service SAPS By means of a historical analysis of South Africa this book introduces a new concept police frontierism which illuminates the nature of the relationships between the police policing and boundaries and can potentially be used for future case study research Drawing on a wealth of research this book examines how social and territorial boundaries strongly influenced police practices and behaviour in South Africa and how social delineations amplify and distort existing police prejudices against those communities on the other side of the boundary Focusing on cases of high density police operations public order policing and the recent policing of the COVID 19 lockdown this book argues that poor economic conditions combined with an increased militarisation of the SAPS and a decline in public trust in the police will result in boundaries continuing to fundamentally inform police work in South Africa This book will be of interest to scholars and students interested in policing in post colonial societies characterised by high levels of violence as well as police work and police militarization

No Case to Answer Andrew Cook, 2022-04-21 In the early hours of Thursday 8 August 1963 sixteen masked men ambushed the Glasgow Euston mail train at Sears Crossing in Buckinghamshire Making off with a record haul of 2.6 million the robbers received approximately 150 000 each over 2 million in today's money While twelve of the robbers were jailed over the next five years four were never brought to justice they evaded arrest and thirty year prison sentences and lived out the rest of their lives in freedom In stark contrast to the likes of Ronnie Biggs Buster Edwards and Bruce Reynolds they became neither household names nor tabloid celebrities Who were these men How did they escape detection for so long And how almost sixty years later are their names still not common knowledge In No Case to Answer Andrew Cook gathers and examines decades of evidence and lays it out end to end It's time for you to draw your own conclusions

Urban Inclusivity in Southern Africa Hangwelani H. Magidimisha-Chipungu, Lovemore

Chipungu,2021-09-28 This book's point of departure rests on the premises that dimensions of the mainstream inclusive city discourse fail to capture in detail vulnerable clusters of society being women children and the aging the minority clusters i.e the blind the disabled and migrants In addition it fails to recognize the increase of spatial inequality driven by racial and class differences a factor that has seen an increase in community violence and protests The focus on spatial inequality has for a long time blind folded urban authorities to ignore exclusion arising out of the same environments created with a notion of creating inclusivity Hence this book collapses spatial walls as it seeks to uncover the true perspectives of inclusivity in cities beyond spatial dimensions but within social realms The depth of this book's enquiry rests on its critical investigation of Southern African cities through historical epochs of apartheid and colonialism in the region Police Integrity in South Africa Sanja Kutnjak Ivkovich,Adri Sauerman,2020-04-29 Policing in South Africa has gained notoriety through its extensive history of oppressive law enforcement In 1994 as the country's apartheid system was replaced with a democratic order the new government faced the significant challenge of transforming the South African police force into a democratic police agency the South African Police Service SAPS that would provide unbiased policing to all the country's people More than two decades since the initiation of the reforms it appears that the SAPS has rapidly developed a reputation as a police agency beset by challenges to its integrity This book offers a unique perspective by providing in depth analyses of police integrity in South Africa It is a case study that systematically and empirically explores the contours of police integrity in a young democracy Using the organizational theory of police integrity the book analyzes the complex set of historical legal political social and economic circumstances shaping police integrity A discussion of the theoretical framework is accompanied by the results of a nationwide survey of nearly 900 SAPS officers probing their familiarity with official rules their expectations of discipline within the SAPS and their willingness to report misconduct The book also examines the influence of the respondents race gender and supervisory status on police integrity Written in a clear and direct style this book will appeal to students and scholars of criminology policing sociology political science as well as to police administrators interested in expanding their knowledge about police integrity and enhancing it in their organizations Africa Now! Adebusi Adeniran,Lanre Ikuteyijo,2017-11-20 This book presents relevant and timely endogenous procedures for addressing the challenge of transforming ideas into sustainable opportunities in Africa It explores how Africa could be understood in the context of emerging global realities providing alternative frameworks that will not just be participatory in conception and practice but equally show a contextual workability for the varying aspects of the developmental enterprise in Africa Despite having alternative and less cumbersome sources of funding with commendable economic growth indices and several economies among the fastest growing globally African countries have been unable to transmute related opportunities into sustainable human development outcomes for majority of its citizenry Over four rich sections the authors cover subjects ranging from environment and natural resource management to governance economy and sustainable development The book

continues with a section on Education and Human Development and a case study in transnationalism The final section discusses crime conflict and regional dynamics including highly disputed topics such as forced migration and sex trade This indispensable resource will be of great use to students and researches globally in fields such as sociology anthropology environmental studies politics and economics with a focus on contemporary Africa as well as to policy planners and human rights activists invested in the future development of Africa

Building a Capable State Ian Palmer, Nishendra Moodley, Susan Parnell, 2017-11-15 The sustainable development goals signed in 2016 marked a new phase in global development thinking one which is focused on ecologically and fiscally sustainable human settlements Few countries offer a better testing ground for their attainment than post apartheid South Africa Since the coming to power of the African National Congress the country has undergone a policy making revolution driven by an urgent need to improve access to services for the country's black majority A quarter century on from the fall of apartheid Building a Capable State asks what lessons can be learned from the South African experience The book assesses whether the South African government has succeeded in improving service delivery focusing on the vital sectors of water and sanitation energy roads public transport and housing Emphasizing the often overlooked role of local government institutions and finance the book demonstrates that effective service delivery can have a profound impact on the social structure of emerging economies and must form an integral part of any future development strategy A comprehensive examination of urban service delivery in the global South Building a Capable State is essential reading for students and practitioners across the social sciences public finance and engineering sectors
