Traces of the Trinity Andrew Robinson, 2014-08-28 The essential argument of this new work by Andrew Robinson is that we live move and have our being within a sea of signs but that we are largely unaware of this for most of the time When the structure of these signs is analysed it turns out to rest on three recurring elemental grounds which the author calls Quality Otherness and Mediation The kaleidoscopic ramifying patterns of Quality Otherness and Meditation which underpin representations and interpretations at every level and dimension of the processes of signification offer a model of the dynamic mutual indwelling of the Father Son and Spirit within the eternal life of the Trinity This semiotic model of the Trinity would be of rather limited interest in itself unless it can also illuminate other areas of Christian theology Robinson suggests that the model leads to a helpful way of understanding how the entirely human person Jesus of Nazareth may be understood to have been the full and perfect embodiment representation of the quality of God s being This in turn helps us to understand how the processes of representation and interpretation enable us to be drawn into the very life of God This has practical implications for the church and for the individual lives of Christian believers It also offers via a re articulation of the neglected concept of vestiges of the Trinity in creation a form of spirituality of the everyday Sunday School Journal for Teachers and Young People , 1889 The coat of many colours, and other Bible teachings and parables Joseph William W.
