

Worksheet: Mutations Practice

There are three ways that DNA can be altered when a mutation (change in DNA sequence) occurs.

1. Substitution – one base-pairs is replaced by another:

Example: G to C or A to G
                   C    G    T    C

2. Insertion – one or more base pairs is added to a sequence:

Example: CGATGG — CGAATGG
                   GCTACC    GCTTACC

3. Deletion – one or more base pairs is lost from a sequence:

Example: CGATGG — CATGG
                   GCTACC    GTACC

There are five possible results of a mutation.

1. Silent mutation: When a base pair is substituted but the change still codes for the same amino acid in the sequence:

Example: TCT and TCC both code for the amino acid Serine

2. Substitution: When a base pair is substituted and the new codon codes for a different amino acid:

Example: TCT codes for Serine and CCT codes for Proline

3. Premature Stop: When a substitution results in the formation of a STOP codon before all of the codons have been read and translated by the ribosome.

Example: GTGGTCCGAAACACC — GTGGTCTGAAACACC
                   Val-Val-Pro-Asn-Thr                   Val-Val-STOP

4. Codon Deletion or Insertion: A whole new amino acid is added, or one is missing from the mutant protein:

Example: GTGGTCCGAAACACC — GTGGTCTGCCGAAACACC
                   Val-Val-Pro-Asn-Thr                   Val-Val-Cys-Pro-Asn-Thr

5. Frame Shift: When a deletion or insertion results in a different base pair being the beginning of the next codon, changing the whole sequence of amino acids

Example: GTGGTCCGAAACACCT — GTGGTCGAAACACCT
                   Val-Val-Pro-Asn-Thr                   Val-Val-Glu-Thr-Pro
