Japanese Colleges and Universities ,1993 Occasional Papers ,2005 Hitting the Mark Miyoko Kobayashi, 2009 Test results are often used to make major decisions whether for educational or research purposes But what intervening factors affect the reliability and validity of the tests And how can we design better tests This book draws on a theoretical framework from research in reading and language testing and investigates the results of a set of reading comprehension tests that were delivered to 750 Japanese university students Its objective is to improve the quality of language tests by addressing the following questions How do different kinds of text organisation affect students performance What are the effects of different response formats such as summary writing and open ended questions What can examiners do to ensure

Rivers,Kayoko Hashimoto,2018-06-14 Despite unsubstantiated claims of best practice the division of language teaching professionals on the basis of their categorization as native speakers or non native speakers continues to cascade throughout the academic literature It has become normative under the rhetorical guise of acting to correct prejudice and or discrimination to see native speakerism as having a single beneficiary the native speaker and a single victim the non native speaker However this unidirectional perspective fails to deal with the more veiled systems through which those labeled as native speakers and non native speakers are both cast as casualties of this questionable bifurcation This volume documents such complexities and aims to fill the void currently observable within mainstream academic literature in the teaching of both English and Japanese foreign language education By identifying how the construct of Japanese native speaker mirrors that of the native speaker of English the volume presents a revealing insight into language teaching in Japan Further taking a problem solving approach this volume explores possible grounds on which language teachers could be employed if native speakerism is rejected according to experts in the fields of intercultural communicative competence English as a Lingua Franca and World Englishes all of which aim to replace the native speaker model with something new
