The Poacher's Moon Richard Peirce, 2014-09-01 When wildlife conservationist Richard Peirce learnt about the targeting of three private game reserves in the Western Cape in 2011 and the butchery of some of their rhinos he embarked on a crusade to raise public awareness about the horrors of rhino poaching This is the story of Higgins and Lady two rhinos from the farm Fairy Glen that defied the odds by surviving a brutal attack Peirce keeps the reader spellbound as he recounts the series of attacks and their aftermath in chilling detail the unbearable savagery suspect police work shady characters mysterious happenings and death threats Reading like a crime thriller this account of dogged survival compassion and triumph along with desperate strategising to outwit the poaching mafia will have wide appeal Colour images throughout taken as the drama unfolded bring the subject even more vividly to life

The Decline of the Black Rhino in Zimbabwe Tom Milliken, Kristin Nowell, Jorgen B. Thomsen, 1993 An evaluation of Zimbabwe's Black Rhino conservation strategy in the face of continuous poaching and illegal trade in rhino horn and an assessment of future options for rhino conservation

African Rhino Richard Emslie, 1999 The black and the white rhinoceros have become flagship species for international conservation

They are significant not only for the continuation of a major evolutionary heritage but also as symbols for the protection of African savannahs. The battle for the survival of these species has been marked by some notable successes and sadly many failures and the situation is still critical. The international horn trade ban and the domestic bans imposed in most traditional user states have driven the trade further underground in some cases inflating prices and making illegal dealing even more lucrative. This Plan is aimed at donors, government and non government organizations and all those involved in rhino conservation. It outlines the actions and strategies needed to catalyse support for these majestic animals and help secure their future in sub Saharan Africa. The overall conclusion is that given the political will, stability and adequate field expenditure, rhinos can be conserved in the wild.

Africa's Threatened Rhinos Keith Somerville, 2025-01-14

Africa's surviving rhinos are under serious threat. Poaching for their horns, massive extermination by sports hunters in the nineteenth and first half of the twentieth century and progressive habitat loss have all driven black and white rhino close to the edge. This book considers human interactions with these magnificent and enigmatic animals, charting hunting for food and hides and then hunting for horn to meet external demand for this much coveted commodity as well as peaceful coexistence over the course of three millennia. With only two females alive in a closely protected reserve in Kenya, the Northern White Rhino is on the brink of extinction. The Southern White Rhino was increasing in numbers but poaching in South Africa, Botswana and Namibia has now reduced the population to fewer than 20,000 while Black Rhino are hovering around the 6,000-6,500 mark, also with the danger of extirpation everywhere but in parts of eastern and southern Africa. Many books have been written on poaching and the decline of the rhino, often from a very personal engaged viewpoint. This volume takes the reader into important new territory, showing how human agency has led to the situation we now face. Covering the history of commercial and sporting exploitation of rhino, it brings the picture up to date with an overview of contemporary conservation and anti poaching operations. This urgent work is a significant contribution to our understanding of wildlife on the African continent.
