

FINDING PRIMARY SOURCES

WHAT ARE PRIMARY SOURCES?

Primary sources are materials written or created by someone who participated in or witnessed the events described. They reflect the individual point of view of the participant or observer. Researchers use primary sources to obtain accurate information about what actually happened during an historical event or time period. (Secondary sources are explained on page 4 of this guide.)

The items described below are examples of primary sources that are useful to researchers:

1. Diaries, journals, speeches, interviews, letters, memos, manuscripts, and other papers in which individuals describe events in which they were participants or observers.
2. Memoirs and autobiographies. These may be less reliable than diaries or letters since they are usually written long after events occurred and may be distorted by bias, dimming memory, or the revised perspective that may come with hindsight. On the other hand, sometimes they are the only sources available for certain information.
3. Oral history interviews provide important primary information for historians. Whether the interview is formal or informal, this type of research often provides unique and enlightening perspectives.
4. Records of or information collected by government agencies. Official records (births, deaths, marriages; permits/licenses; census data; etc.) document conditions in the society.
5. Records of organizations. The minutes, reports, correspondence, etc. of an organization or agency serve as an ongoing record of the activity and thinking of that specific group.
6. Published materials (books, magazine, journal, and newspaper articles) written about a particular event at the time it happened. These may be accounts by participants, but in most cases they are written by journalists or other observers. It is important to distinguish between reports written at the time of an event and material written much later as historical analysis.
7. Materials that document the attitudes and popular thought of a historical period. If you want to find evidence of the mentality of an era, or of a group (a world view, a set of attitudes, or the popular perception of an event or condition), an obvious source is public opinion polls taken at the time. Since these are limited in availability and in what they reveal, it is also helpful to make use of ideas and images conveyed in the mass media, and in literature, film, popular fiction, textbooks, etc. These sources, written or produced at the time, should be used as evidence of how people were thinking.
8. Photographs, audio or video recordings, and films that document an event.
9. Research data such as anthropological field notes, the results of scientific experiments, and other scholarly activity of the time.
10. Artifacts of all kinds: physical objects, buildings, furniture, tools, appliances, household items, clothing, toys, etc.
