Methods For Mining And Summarizing Text Conversations Raymond Ng:

Methods for Mining and Summarizing Text Conversations Giuseppe Carenini, Gabriel Murray, Raymond Ng, 2011 This book presents a set of computational methods to extract information from conversational data e.g meeting transcripts and emails and to provide natural language summaries of the data Very recent approaches for dealing with blogs discussion forums texts and microblogs e.g Twitter are also discussed Derived from book cover

Database Repairing and Consistent Query Answering Leopoldo Bertossi, 2022-05-31 Integrity constraints are semantic conditions that a database should satisfy in order to be an appropriate model of external reality In practice and for many reasons a database may not satisfy those integrity constraints and for that reason it is said to be inconsistent However and most likely a large portion of the database is still semantically correct in a sense that has to be made precise After having provided a formal characterization of consistent data in an inconsistent database the natural problem emerges of extracting that semantically correct data as query answers The consistent data in an inconsistent database is usually characterized as the data that persists across all the database instances that are consistent and minimally differ from the inconsistent instance Those are the so called repairs of the database In particular the consistent answers to a query posed to the inconsistent database are those answers that can be simultaneously obtained from all the database repairs As expected the notion of repair requires an adequate notion of distance that allows for the comparison of databases with respect to how much they differ from the inconsistent instance On this basis the minimality condition on repairs can be properly formulated In this monograph we present and discuss these fundamental concepts different repair semantics algorithms for computing consistent answers to queries and also complexity theoretic results related to the computation of repairs and doing consistent query answering Table of Contents Introduction The Notions of Repair and Consistent Answer Tractable CQA and Query Rewriting Logically Specifying Repairs Decision Problems in CQA Complexity and Algorithms Repairs and Data Cleaning

Data Exploration Using Example-Based Methods Matteo Lissandrini, Davide Mottin, Themis Palpanas, Yannis Velegrakis, 2022-06-01 Data usually comes in a plethora of formats and dimensions rendering the exploration and information extraction processes challenging Thus being able to perform exploratory analyses in the data with the intent of having an immediate glimpse on some of the data properties is becoming crucial Exploratory analyses should be simple enough to avoid complicate declarative languages such as SQL and mechanisms and at the same time retain the flexibility and expressiveness of such languages Recently we have witnessed a rediscovery of the so called example based methods in which the user or the analyst circumvents query languages by using examples as input An example is a representative of the intended results or in other words an item from the result set Example based methods exploit inherent characteristics of the data to infer the results that the user has in mind but may not be able to easily express They can be useful in cases where a user is looking for information in an unfamiliar dataset when the task is particularly challenging like finding duplicate items or simply when they are exploring the data In this book we present an excursus over the main methods for exploratory analysis with a particular focus on example based methods We show how that different data types require different techniques and present algorithms that are specifically designed for relational textual and graph data The book presents also the challenges and the new frontiers of machine learning in online settings which recently attracted the attention of the database community The lecture concludes with a vision for further research and applications in this area

Managing Event Information Amarnath Gupta,Ramesh

Jain,2022-05-31 With the proliferation of citizen reporting smart mobile devices and social media an increasing number of people are beginning to generate information about events they observe and participate in A significant fraction of this information contains multimedia data to share the experience with their audience A systematic information modeling and management framework is necessary to capture this widely heterogeneous schemaless potentially humongous information produced by many different people This book is an attempt to examine the modeling storage querying and applications of such an event management system in a holistic manner It uses a semantic web style graph based view of events and shows how this event model together with its query facility can be used toward emerging applications like semi automated storytelling Table of Contents Introduction Event Data Models Implementing an Event Data Model Querying Events

P2P Techniques for Decentralized Applications Esther

Pacitti,Reza Akbaranian,Manal El-Dick,2022-06-01 As an alternative to traditional client server systems Peer to Peer P2P

systems provide major advantages in terms of scalability autonomy and dynamic behavior of peers and decentralization of control Thus they are well suited for large scale data sharing in distributed environments Most of the existing P2P approaches for data sharing rely on either structured networks e g DHTs for efficient indexing or unstructured networks for ease of deployment or some combination However these approaches have some limitations such as lack of freedom for data placement in DHTs and high latency and high network traffic in unstructured networks To address these limitations gossip protocols which are easy to deploy and scale well can be exploited In this book we will give an overview of these different P2P techniques and architectures discuss their trade offs and illustrate their use for decentralizing several large scale data sharing applications Table of Contents P2P Overlays Query Routing and Gossiping Content Distribution in P2P Systems
