The Global in the Local Xin Zhang, 2023-04-04 The story of globalization in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries as experienced by ordinary people in the Chinese river town of Zhenjiang Fear swept Zhenjiang as British soldiers gathered outside the city walls in the summer of 1842 Already suspicious of foreigners locals had also heard of the suffering the British inflicted two months earlier in Zhapu A wave of suicides and mercy killings ensued rather than leave their families to the invaders hundreds of women killed themselves and their children or died at the hands of male family members British observers decried an Asian culture of ritual suicide In reality the event was sui generis a tragic result of colliding local and global forces in nineteenth century China Xin Zhang's groundbreaking history examines the intense negotiations between local societies and global changes that created modern China In the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries world historic political economic and technological developments transformed the textures of everyday life in places like Zhenjiang a midsize river town in China's prosperous Lower Yangzi region Drawing on rare primary sources including handwritten diaries and other personal writings Zhang offers a ground level view of globalization in the city We see civilians coping with the traumatic international encounters of the Opium War Zhenjiang brokers bankrolling Shanghai's ascendance as a cosmopolitan commercial hub and merchants shipping goods to market for the first time on steamships Far from passive recipients the Chinese leveraged resisted and made change for themselves Indeed The Global in the Local argues that globalization is inevitably refracted through local particularities years powerfully shaping the modern world In the centuries leading up to our own the volume of traffic across Asian sea routes an area stretching from East Africa and the Middle East to Japan grew dramatically eventually making them the busiest in the world The result was a massive circulation of people commodities religion culture technology and ideas In this book Eric Tagliacozzo chronicles how the seas and oceans of Asia have shaped the history of the largest continent for the past half millennium leaving an indelible mark on the modern world in the process Paying special attention to migration trade the environment and cities In Asian Waters examines the long history of contact between China and East Africa the spread of Hinduism and Buddhism across the Bay of Bengal and the intertwined histories of Islam and Christianity in the Philippines The book illustrates how India became central to the spice trade how the Indian Ocean became a British lake between the seventeenth and nineteenth centuries and how lighthouses and sea mapping played important roles in imperialism The volume ends by asking what may happen if China comes to rule the waves of Asia as Britain once did A novel account showing how Asian history can be seen as a whole when seen from the water In Asian Waters presents a voyage into a past that is still alive in the present Indian Merchants and Eurasian Trade, 1600-1750 Stephen Frederic Dale,1994 In this remarkable 1994 work of comparative economic history Stephen Dale studies the activities and economic significance of the Indian mercantile communities which traded in Iran Central Asia and Russia in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries The author uses Russian sources hitherto largely ignored to show that these merchants represented part of the hegemonic trade diaspora of the Indian world economy thus challenging the conventional interpretation of world economic history that European merchants overwhelmed their Asian counterparts in the early modern era The book not only demonstrates the vitality of Indian mercantile capitalism but also offers a unique insight into the social characteristics of an Indian expatriate trading community in the Volga Caspian port of Astrakhan Precarious Belongings , Chih-ming Wang,, Daniel PS Goh,2017-04-03 In the midst of refugee crises terrorist attacks and territorial disputes across the globe nationalism remains a powerful force in generating affects of inclusion and exclusion In Asia inter Asian migration enabled and disrupted by a history of colonialism capitalist globalization and political conflicts has rendered the idea of nation as both politically distinct and culturally malleable Precarious Belongings Affect and Nationalism in Asia explores the affective politics of Asian nationalism by addressing the entwined structures of precarious belonging and national feelings Bringing together leading scholars it looks at how the reification of nationalism in social movements popular sentiments online groups and cultural representation directs hatred towards migrant and minority groups across Asia The book posits that nationalist affects are embedded in the politics of exclusion and seeks to make room for precarious belongings in the transnational and multicultural present It should be of interest to students and scholars interested in Asian Cultural Studies transnationalism migration and nationalism A Cultural History of Famine Ayesha Mukherjee,2019-01-15 The term food security does not immediately signal research done in humanities disciplines It refers to a complex contested issue whose currency and significance are hardly debatable given present concerns about environmental change resource management and sustainability The subject is thus largely studied within science and social science disciplines in current or very recent historical contexts This book brings together perspectives on food security and related environmental concerns from experts in the disciplines of literary studies history science and social sciences It allows readers to compare past and contemporary attitudes towards the issues in India and Britain the economic social and environmental histories of these two nations have been closely connected ever since British travellers began to visit India in the latter half of the sixteenth century The chapters in this book discuss themes such as climate harvest failure trade technological improvements transport networks charity measures and popular protest which affected food security in both countries from the seventeenth century onwards The authors cover a range of disciplinary and interdisciplinary approaches and their chapters allow readers to understand and compare different methodologies as well as different contexts of time and place relevant to the topic This book will be of great interest to students and researchers of economic and social history environmental history literary studies and South Asian studies
