Identity, Motivation and Memory Sarah Kayss, 2018-09-03 This book explores the connection between British and German officer cadets' perceptions of the past and their motivations for enlisting in the military forces in the United Kingdom and Germany. Drawing upon qualitative interviews and survey data conducted at officers' academies in the UK and Germany, the author offers a comparative analysis using differing approaches towards history and memory in Britain and Germany while considering the roles of individual goals and societal orientations in the decision to enlist. Employing the notion of pragmatic professionalism, which reflects the fact that occupational and institutional reasons for enlisting are not opposite points on a single scale, Professionalism, Memory and Identity examines history-orientated reasons for enlistment by shedding light on officer cadets' values, beliefs, and wider cultural understandings of the past. With attention to differences in motivation as a result of differing national backgrounds and former military training, as well as the extent to which these divergences contribute to the emergence of different types of soldiers in the two countries, this comparative international study will appeal to scholars of sociology, politics, and war studies with interests in the military profession and the role of history in contemporary Britain and Germany. Information Series South Africa. Recruitment and retention in the armed forces Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Committee of Public Accounts, 2007-07-03 The armed forces are short of servicemen and women. At April 2007, the overall shortfall was 5 850 personnel or 3.2 per cent, and none of the three Services were within their targets known as manning balance. Many highly specialised areas, such as nurses and linguists, have larger shortfalls. The impact of continuous downsizing pressures and overstretch is affecting the ability of the Ministry of Defence (MoD) to retain and provide a satisfactory life for Armed Forces personnel. Numbers leaving early have risen in the last two years and are now at a ten-year peak for Army and Royal Air Force Officers and for Royal Air Force Other Ranks. The frequency of deployments is creating pressure on some personnel with large numbers exceeding the harmony guidelines on time spent away from home. The MoD has operated above the most demanding level of operations under Defence Planning Assumptions since 2001 but has not adjusted its manning requirements Short term financial measures to improve retention have had some success but do not address the key drivers for leaving such as servicemen and women s inability to plan ahead and the impact on their family life The MoD also lacks basic information on the costs of its measures which would enable it to make more informed judgements on incentives to improve recruitment and retention Past cuts in recruitment activity have had a damaging longer term effect on manning in some areas Such cutbacks are almost impossible to recover as budget and capacity constraints prevent the MoD from over recruiting to make up for shortfalls in previous years New Namibian Plays Terence Zeeman,2000 Southscan ,1996
