The Arts of Leading Edward William Randolph Llywelyn Brooks, Michael Lamb, 2024 This multi author volume turns to the humanities to explore what we can learn about leadership when we shift our lens away from business politics and the social sciences to explore the rich diverse and nuanced perspectives of the liberal arts Drawing insights from leading scholars in classics philosophy religion literature history and the visual and performing arts this book considers how diverse exemplars and a wide range of disciplinary ways of knowing can illuminate complex aspects of leadership that are often obscured in a leadership discourse typically centered on business and politics It asks fundamental questions about human social life What does it mean to lead Whom do we consider to be leaders And how might diverse perspectives from the humanities expand how leadership is imagined represented and enacted Rather than instrumentalizing the humanities or reducing them to mere management resources The Arts of Leading engages diverse perspectives from the humanities on their own terms to uncover alternative ways of imagining embodying and enacting leadership across different historical moral and cultural contexts The result is a series of insightful and refreshing essays that challenge leaders scholars and

The Homing Pigeon, and National Homing Union Members' Gazette ,1913 The Columbia Guide to Central African Literature in English Since 1945 Adrian A. Roscoe, 2008 Columbia's guides to postwar African literature paint a unique portrait of the continent's rich and diverse literary traditions. This volume examines the rapid rise and growth of modern literature in the three postcolonial nations of Zimbabwe, Malawi, and Zambia. It tracks the multiple political and economic pressures that have shaped Central African writing since the end of World War II and reveals its authors' heroic efforts to keep their literary traditions alive in the face of extreme poverty and AIDS. Adrian Roscoe begins with a list of key political events. Since writers were composing within both colonial and postcolonial contexts, he pays particular attention to the nature of British colonialism, especially theories regarding its provenance and motivation. Roscoe discusses such historical figures as David Livingstone, Cecil Rhodes, and Sir Harry Johnston, as well as modern power players including Robert Mugabe, Kenneth Kaunda, and Kamuzu Banda. He also addresses efforts to create a literary historical record from an African perspective, an account that challenges white historiographies in which the colonized was neither agent nor informer. A comprehensive alphabetical guide profiles both established and emerging authors and further illustrates issues raised in the introduction. Roscoe then concludes with a detailed bibliography recommending additional reading and sources. At the close of World War II, the people of Central Africa found themselves mired in imperial fatigue and broken promises of freedom. This fueled a desire for liberation and a major surge in literary production, and in this illuminating guide, Roscoe details the campaigns for social justice and political integrity, for education and economic empowerment, and for gender equity, participatory democracy, rural development, and environmental care that characterized this exciting period of development.
