Why is climate change a trade union issue?

Trade unions have a long history of taking action on environmental issues, campaigning for a safer, healthier working and living environment. The workplaces that unions organise – and seek to organise – burn energy, consume resources and generate waste. Over half of carbon emissions are work-related and

In September 2009, the UK government announced in Manchester a target of a 34% annual reduction in carbon emissions necessary to stabilise emissions by 2050. It has been increasing by about 1 per cent a year since 1990.

Most governments agree that increasing energy efficiency is key in the battle against climate change. Not only is it the quickest way
