Nicholls,Richard J. Dawson,Sophie A. Day (née Nicholson-Cole),2015-08-26 Coastal zones exemplify the environmental pressures we face their beauty attracts settlement they offer potential for diverse economic activities and they are sensitive natural habitats for important species as well as providing a range of ecosystem services. They are also extremely vulnerable to the vicissitudes of climate change which include rising sea levels and changes in extreme events such as storms. With large populations living in coastal and estuarine cities facing the ongoing threat of inundation, coordinated management is essential, especially as coastal zones form a linked system in which piecemeal uncoordinated management could be counterproductive.

Imagining the Future City Sarah Bell, James Paskins, 2013-11-18 London is one of the world's leading cities. It is home to an extraordinary concentration and diversity of people, industries, politics, religions, and ideas, and plays an important role in our highly globalised and tightly networked modern world. What does the future hold for London? Investigating any aspect of the city's future reveals a complex picture of interrelations and dependencies. The London 2062 Programme from University College London brings a new cross-disciplinary and highly collaborative approach to investigating this complexity. The programme crosses departmental boundaries within the university and promotes active collaboration between leading academics and those who shape London through policy and practice. This book approaches the question of London's future by considering the city in terms of Connections, Things, Power, and Dreams.
