

A top-down view of a meal prep setup on a grey countertop. In the center is a white sheet of paper titled "Weekly Menu" with a silver pen resting on it. Surrounding the paper are several clear plastic meal prep containers with teal-colored latches. The containers are filled with various foods: one has green beans and chicken, another has a mix of vegetables and purple grapes, a third has rotini pasta with tomatoes and green onions, and a fourth (partially visible) has a hard-boiled egg and cucumbers. In the foreground, a person's hands are holding a container filled with white rice, chicken, green beans, and chickpeas, using a wooden fork to mix the ingredients. A small white card with a green circular logo is tucked into the container.

divided into two phases that last 14 days and involves restricting to 1000kcal for three days and then 1500kcal for the next 11 days. The first phase includes kale, spinach, and lemon. The second phase includes turkey, escarole, sage, and red wine. The third phase includes buckwheat noodles. From days four to seven, the diet is 1500kcal, consisting of two servings of sirtfood grains and two servings of sirtfood rich in antioxidants. Although the diet promotes healthy foods, it is restrictive in many choices and especially during the first stages. It also involves drinking juice with the meal during the first 14 days. SIRTFOOD DIET
