Language and Institutional Identity in the Post-Apartheid South African Higher Education Leketi Makalela, 2022-03-21 This book examines the intersections between education identity formation and language in post apartheid South Africa with specific attention to higher education It does so against the backdrop of the core argument that the sector plays a critical role in shaping re producing and perpetuating sectoral class sub national and national identities which in turn in the peculiar South African setting are almost invariably analogous with the historical fault lines determined and dictated by language as a marker of ethnic and racial identity The chapters in the book grapple with the nuances related to these intersections in the understanding that higher education language policies overt and or covert largely structure institutional cultures or what has been described as curriculum in higher education institutions Together the chapters examine the roles played by higher education by language policies and by the intersections of these policies and ethnolinguistic identities in either constructing and perpetuating or deconstructing ethnolinguistic identities upon which the sector was founded The introductory chapter lays out the background to the entire book with an emphasis on the policy and practice perspectives on the intersections The middle chapters describe the so called White Universities Black Universities and Middle Man Minorities Universities The final chapter maps out future directions of the discourses on language and identity formation in South Africa s higher education

The Activist Collector Christa Clarke, 2023-02-17 Published by the Newark Museum Distributed worldwide by Rutgers University Press After twenty eight years of desire and determination I have visited Africa the land of my forefathers So wrote Lida Clanton Broner 1895 1982 an African American housekeeper and hairstylist from Newark New Jersey upon her return from an extraordinary nine month journey to South Africa in 1938 This epic trip was motivated not only by Broner's sense of ancestral heritage but also a grassroots resolve to connect the socio-political concerns of African Americans with those of black South Africans under the segregationist policies of the time. During her travels this woman of modest means circulated among South Africa's Black intellectual elite including many leaders of South Africa's freedom struggle. Her lectures at Black schools on race consciousness and race pride had a decidedly political bent even as she was presented as an American beauty specialist. How did Broner, a working class mother, come to be a globally connected activist? What were her experiences as an African American woman in segregated South Africa and how did she further her work after her return? Broner's remarkable story is the subject of this book which draws upon a deep visual and documentary record now held in the collection of the Newark Museum of Art. This extraordinary archive includes more than one hundred and fifty objects ranging from beadwork and pottery to mission school crafts acquired by Broner in South Africa along with her diary, correspondence, scrapbooks and hundreds of photographs with handwritten notations.

Johnny Clegg Michael Drewett, Lucilla Spini, 2025-10. This book examines the profound legacy of Johnny Clegg 1953-2019, the South African musician, anthropologist and cultural activist who revolutionised the nation's musical landscape. From his groundbreaking collaboration with Siphos Mchunu in the 1970s through to his success with Juluka and Savuka and as a solo artist, Clegg navigated apartheid era censorship while reshaping South African cultural politics. Drawing on unprecedented access to archival materials and band member interviews, this interdisciplinary research analyses Clegg's unique position as both scholar and performer. The study presents three critical interventions: an examination of his synthesis of music, dance and political philosophy as embodied resistance to apartheid; an analysis of his transnational impact and navigation of the global cultural boycott; and an investigation of cultural appropriation and decolonial practice through his engagement with and reinterpretation of Zulu traditions. Situated at the intersection of ethnomusicology, anthropology and African studies, this volume offers fresh theoretical frameworks for understanding cultural hybridity and postcolonial performance. It positions Clegg's work within broader discussions of race, power and cultural production in the Global South.
