Natural disasters are a clear example of people living in conflict with the environment. Disasters cause human, social, and environmental losses, and sometimes even threaten geopolitical stability, as in many less developed countries. They are also a problem of global concern, even when damage is local, the mechanisms are often dependent on global meteorological climatic circulation. Losses frequently affect several countries, as could be seen in the floods in central Europe in 2002. It is obvious that there is a clear need for a new approach capable of incorporating the prevention of natural disasters whilst mitigating strategies within the cycle of sustainable development.
