Puṣpikā: Tracing Ancient India Through Texts and Traditions Nina Mirnig, Peter-Daniel Szanto, Michael Williams, 2013-12-23 It is perhaps commonplace to say that India is one of the world's richest and most enticing cultures. One thousand years have passed since Albiruni arguably the first Indologist wrote his outsider's account of the subcontinent and two hundred years have passed since the inception of Western Indology. And yet what this monumental scholarship has achieved is still outweighed by the huge tracts of terra incognita, thousands of works lacking scholarly attention and even more manuscripts which still await careful study whilst decaying in the unforgiving Indian climate. In September 2009 young researchers and graduate students in this field came together to present their cutting edge work at the first International Indology Graduate Research Symposium which was held at Oxford University. This volume, the first in a new series which will publish the proceedings of the Symposium, will make important contributions to the study of the classical civilisation of the Indian subcontinent. The series, edited by Nina Mirnig, Peter-Daniel Szanto and Michael Williams, will strive to cover a wide range of subjects reaching from literature, religion, philosophy, ritual and grammar to social history, with the aim that the research published will not only enrich the field of classical Indology but eventually also contribute to the studies of history and anthropology of India and Indianised Central and South East Asia.

The Roots of Old Chinese Laurent Sagart, 1999-09-15 The phonology, morphology and lexicon of late Zhou Chinese are examined in this volume. It is argued that a proper understanding of Old Chinese morphology is essential in correctly reconstructing the phonology. Based on evidence from word families, modern dialects and related words in neighboring languages, Old Chinese words are claimed to consist of a monosyllabic root to which a variety of derivational affixes are attached. This made Old Chinese typologically more like modern languages such as Khmer Gyarong or Atayal than like Middle and modern Chinese where only faint traces of the old morphology remain In the first part of the book the author proposes improvements to Baxter s system of reconstruction regarding complex initials and rhymes and then reviews in great detail the Old Chinese affixal morphology New proposals on phonology and morphology are integrated into a coherent reconstruction system The second part of the book consists of etymological studies of important lexical items in Old Chinese The author demonstrates in particular the role of proportional analogy in the formation of the system of personal pronouns Special attention is paid to contact phenomena between Chinese and neighboring languages and unlike most literature on Sino Tibetan the author identifies numerous Chinese loanwords into Tibeto Burman The book which contains a lengthy list of reconstructions an index of characters and a general index is intended for linguists and cultural historians as well as advanced students Phonological Profiles of Little-studied Tibetic Varieties Jackson T.-S.
