D. Braun,John B. Radner,2005 The most momentous natural disasters are not necessarily those with the most victims but rather those producing the greatest shockwaves in intellectual history The Lisbon earthquake of 1755 forced thinkers to re-engage with many of the greatest metaphysical and scientific questions of the day Humanity claiming control of its condition through its search for knowledge was confounded by its sudden and brutal reduction to the role of passive victim by an unpredictable and incomprehensible Nature Reason and faith had been reconciled in their understanding and celebration of a divine law reflected and echoed by the laws of science but the Lisbon earthquake shattered the euphoria of this reconciliation The debate was metaphysical and scientific but it was also aesthetic as the earthquake reopened interest in the sublime everything that threatened man's personal security and that enthralled the imagination Voltaire's intervention made the earthquake one of the great dramas of the century It even became a metaphor of the French Revolution shifting the emotion from the trauma of a natural phenomenon to that of a political event Casanova dreamed of a disaster that might raze the Doge's palace while Mercier was ambivalent in his Tableau de Paris imagining a catastrophe capable of laying waste to Paris

Behind the obligatory pathos lay a veiled desire for regeneration through destruction This is the first major work in half a century to assess the Lisbon earthquake of 1755 both as it was represented at the time and the reactions it provoked in large areas of western and central Europe including Portugal Spain France England Germany Switzerland and the Netherlands Topics considered include its coverage in the popular press its social and political aftermath the theological and scientific debates it engendered as well as twenty first century assessments of its causes and effects Literary responses both serious and parodic are discussed through the centuries up to our own time Journal d'agriculture pratique ,1905
