Chapter 17. MONOPOLISTIC COMPETITION

Solutions to Problems and Applications

 - a. The market for #2 pencils is perfectly competitive since pencils by any manufacturer are identical and there are a large number of manufacturers.
 - b. The market for bottled water is monopolistically competitive because of consumers' concerns about quality. As a result, each producer has a slightly different product.
 - c. The market for copper is perfectly competitive, since all copper is identical and there are a large number of producers.
 - d. The market for local telephone service is monopolistic because it is a natural monopoly—it is cheaper for one firm to supply all the output.
 - e. The market for peanut butter is monopolistically competitive because different brand names exist with different quality characteristics.
 - f. The market for lipstick is monopolistically competitive because lipstick from different firms differs slightly, but there are a large number of firms who can enter or exit without restriction.
2. A monopolistic firm produces a product for which there are no close substitutes, but a monopolistically competitive firm produces a product that is only somewhat different from substitute goods. So the goods differ in terms of the degree to which substitutes exist.
3. Monopolistically competitive firms don't increase the quantity they produce to lower the average cost of production because doing so would require them to lower their price. The loss in revenue from the lower price outweighs the benefits of the lower cost of production.
 - a. Figure 4 illustrates the market for Sparkle toothpaste in long-run equilibrium. The profit-maximizing level of output is Q_4 and the price is P_4 .

Deficit Hysteria Arthur Benavie, 1998-09-30 The political consensus in the United States today is that the nation must avoid deficit spending But as virtuous and unassailable as that goal sounds it has fallacies and dangers In a lucid nontechnical writing style Benavie shows that deficits can be either good or bad and explains how to tell the difference Deficits or government borrowing can be beneficial to the nation's economic health he shows in three main ways When the economy slumps a deficit is automatically created and helps to reduce the severity of the recession When the economy is seriously depressed boosting the deficit may be the only cure and deficits supporting such investments as basic research cleaning up toxic waste and rebuilding inner cities are crucial to the economic health of future generations Preventing such borrowing would be comparable to preventing one's family from borrowing money to buy a house or to put a child through college
