Managing Conflict In A World Adrift:

Managing Conflict in a World Adrift Chester A. Crocker, Fen Osler Hampson, Pamela Aall, 2016-10-17 Forty of the world's leading international affairs analysts examine the relationship between political social or economic change and the outbreak and spread of conflict

International Negotiation and Mediation in Violent Conflict Chester A. Crocker, Fen Osler Hampson, Pamela Aall, 2018-02-06 This collection of essays situates the study and practice of international mediation and peaceful settlement of disputes within a changing global context The book is organized around issues of concern to practitioners including the broader regional global and institutional context of mediation and how this broader environment shapes the opportunities and prospects for successful mediation A major theme is complexity and how the complex contemporary context presents serious challenges to mediation This environment describes a world where great power rivalries and politics are coming back into play and international and regional organizations are playing different roles and facing different kinds of constraints in the peaceful settlement of disputes The first section discusses the changing international environment for conflict management and reflects on some of the challenges that this changing environment raises for addressing conflict Part II focuses on the consequences of bringing new actors into third party engagement and examines what may be harbingers for how we will attempt to resolve conflict in the future The third section turns to the world of practice and discusses mediation statecraft and how to employ it in this current international environment The volume aims to situate the practice and study of mediation within this wider social and political context to better understand the opportunities and constraints of mediation in today's world The value of the book lies in its focus on complex and serious issues that challenge both mediators and scholars This volume will be of much interest to students practitioners and policymakers in the area of international negotiation mediation conflict resolution and international relations

Ending South Sudan's Civil War Katherine Almquist Knopf, 2016-11-01 Following its independence in 2011 three years of civil war have left South Sudan on the cusp of full scale genocide with its sovereignty discredited by warring elites asserts a new Council Special Report Ending South Sudan's Civil War The only remaining path to protect South Sudan's sovereignty and territorial integrity restore its legitimacy and politically empower its citizens is through an international transitional administration established by the United Nations and the African Union AU to run the country for a finite period argues Katherine Almquist Knopf the author of the report

The Catholic Case against War David Carroll Cochran, 2024-03-01 The Catholic Case against War demonstrates how the Catholic mantra Never again war reflects a set of powerfully realistic teachings on war and peace Over the last five decades the Catholic Church has emerged as a powerful critic of war and as an advocate for its alternatives At the same time researchers of armed conflict have produced a considerable body of scholarship on war and its prevention The Catholic Case against War compares these seemingly disparate lines of thought and finds a remarkable harmony between the two Drawing on years of Vatican documents and papal statements political scientist David Carroll Cochran clearly presents the key elements of the Church's case against war. Far from a naive optimistic call for peace, these teachings are consistent with the empirical research on the realities of contemporary warfare. The result is a look not only at the explicit moral case against war developed by the Vatican but also at its remarkable realism and relevance to world conflict today.

The Art of War in an Age of Peace Michael O'Hanlon, 2021-05-25 An informed modern plan for post 2020 American foreign policy that avoids the opposing dangers of retrenchment and overextension. Russia and China are both believed to have grand strategies, detailed sets of national security goals backed by means and plans to pursue them. In the United States, policy makers have tried to articulate similar concepts but have failed to reach a widespread consensus since the Cold War ended. While the United States has been the world's prominent superpower for over a generation, much American thinking has oscillated between the extremes of isolationist agendas versus interventionist and overly assertive ones. Drawing on historical precedents and weighing issues such as Russia's resurgence, China's great rise, North Korea's nuclear machinations, and Middle East turmoil, Michael O'Hanlon presents a well-researched, ethically sound, and politically viable vision for American national security policy. He also proposes complementing the Pentagon's set of 4-1 pre-existing threats with a new 4-1 biological, nuclear, digital, climatic, and internal dangers.

The Fabric of Peace in Africa Pamela Aall, Chester A. Crocker, 2017-06-05 Africa has experienced dozens of conflicts over a variety of issues during the past two decades. Responding to these conflicts requires concerted action to manage the crises, the violence, the political discord, and the humanitarian consequences of prolonged fighting. It is also necessary to address the long-term social and economic impacts of conflict to rebuild communities, societies, and states that have been torn apart. To accomplish this requires the involvement of institutions and groups rarely considered in formal official African conflict management activities: schools, universities, religious institutions, media, commercial enterprises, legal institutions, civil society groups, youth, women, and migrants. These groups and organizations have an important role to play in building a sense of identity, fairness, shared norms, and cohesion between state and society, all critical components of the fabric of peace and security in Africa. This volume brings together leading experts from Africa, Europe, and North America to examine these critical social institutions and groups and consider how they can either improve or impede peaceful conflict resolution. The overarching questions that are explored by the authors are: What constitutes social cohesion and resilience in the face of conflict? What are the threats to cohesion and resilience? And how can the positive elements be fostered and by whom?

The second of two volumes on African conflict management, capacity, by the editors, The Fabric of Peace in Africa: Looking beyond the State, opens new doors of understanding for students, scholars, and practitioners focused on strengthening peace in Africa. The first volume, Minding the Gap: African Conflict Management in a Time of Change, focused on the role of mediation and peacekeeping in managing violence and political crises.

Responding to Violent Conflicts and Humanitarian Crises Pamela Aall, Dan Snodderly, 2021-01-08 This book introduces the four principal sets of institutions that engage in bringing peace and relief to societies mired in violent conflicts and humanitarian crises the United Nations and other international bodies non governmental organizations civilian government agencies and militaries Because these institutions have distinct goals as well as overlapping mandates and activities on the ground they do not always collaborate effectively due in part to a lack of familiarity with how the other institutions are organized make decisions or act on the ground Despite declining public support for large scale state building missions recently more complex interagency efforts have evolved in partnership with host country governments Numerous third parties continue to undertake peacebuilding stabilization and humanitarian relief measures around the globe This book is intended primarily for those serving in the field but it is also helpful to headquarters personnel and policymakers as well as military and agency trainees and university students Alternative Press Index
