Maths Paper 1 Grade 12 September 2012:

2012 GCSE English results Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Education Committee, 2013-06-11 The 2012 GCSE English results prompted significant controversy which ultimately resulted in an application for judicial review This report sets out the background to these events and identifies lessons to be learned The problems with GCSE English can be traced back to the 2007/09 development phase of the qualification in particular the turbulence which resulted from the shift away from a mostly linear to a modular system combined with a high proportion of controlled assessment and generous marking tolerances Exam board experts raised concerns at the time but these were not acted upon by the regulator the then interim Ofqual Further difficulties arose because of pressures from the school accountability system The problems experienced with GCSE English in 2012 highlighted serious weaknesses in the moderation of speaking and listening with consequences for grade awarding The current status of Ofqual as an independent regulator accountable to Parliament is the right one However the Coalition Government is bringing in wholesale changes to GCSEs and A levels to a tight timetable and at the same time Ofqual must have systems in place The Committee is also concerned that there is a rush towards separate exam systems for England Wales and Northern Ireland without careful reflection on what might be lost or consensus that this is the right thing to do

From GCSEs to EBCs Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Education Committee, 2013 The Government's plans for replacing GCSEs with new English Baccalaureate Certificates in some subjects is trying to do too much too fast Introducing several fundamental changes at the same time and to a tight timetable will jeopardise the quality of the reforms and may threaten the stability of the wider exam system GCSEs need significant improvements in order to restore public confidence in the exam system but the Government still needs to make the case that the GCSE brand is so discredited that it is beyond repair MPs are also concerned about the impact of the changes on subjects outside the English Baccalaureate where students will be taking GCSEs for some time to come according to the Government's plans The report also questions how well the Government's proposals will serve lower attaining pupils who are often the most disadvantaged There is no evidence that the proposed changes will help to tackle under achievement or narrow the attainment gap between the richest and poorest students any more effectively than GCSEs The Government is also called upon to re think its plans for a Statement of Achievement specifically for lower attaining pupils MPs agree that changes are needed to the way in which exams are run but they raise serious concerns about franchising subjects to exam boards The report is critical of the Government's decision to abolish some GCSEs before publishing the outcomes of the National Curriculum Review and its proposed changes to the school accountability system MPs also note the wide ranging stakeholder opposition to many of the Government's proposals

Parliamentary Debates (Hansard). Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons, 2012

Research for Educational Change Jill Adler, Anna Sfard, 2016-06-17 Research for Educational Change presents ways in which educational research can fulfil its commitments to educational practice Focussing its discussion within the context of mathematics education it argues that while research generated insights can have beneficial effects on learning and teaching the question of how these effects are to be generated and sustained is far from evident The question of how to turn research into educational improvement is discussed here in the context of learning and teaching hindered by poverty and social injustice In the first part of the book four teams of researchers use different methodologies while analysing the same corpus of data collected in a South African mathematics classroom In the second part each of these teams makes a specific proposal about what can be done and how so that its research generated insights have a tangible beneficial impact on what is happening in mathematical classrooms Combining two discourses that of researchers speaking to one another and that of researchers communicating their insights to those responsible for educational practice the book deals with the perennial question of communication between those who study educational processes and those who are directly responsible for teacher education educational research and classroom practices This book will be key reading for postgraduates researchers and academics in education and particularly in the areas of mathematics education education research teacher education and classroom practice It will also appeal to teacher educators practitioners and undergraduate students interested in educational research ICEL 2018 13th International Conference on e-Learning Professor Eunice Ivala, 2018-07-05

Testing Times Willis Richard, 2014-02-07 This book focuses on the delivery of public examinations offered by the main examining boards in England since Victorian England The investigation reveals that the provision of examinations was as controversial in the nineteenth century as it is today particularly since the government is now determined to bring in reform The issues of grade inflation the place of coursework in marking and the introduction of technological change all feature in this book Educational policy is primarily examined as well as some reference to the global scene The study analyses archival material from a wide range of sources including those records stored at the National Archives and the London Metropolitan Archives An emphasis is placed upon the various institutions that contributed to the process including the Royal Society of Arts the London Chamber of Commerce the City of Guilds of London Institute and the University of London Attention is given to the findings of the Taunton Commission and the Bryce Commission and shorter reports such as the Northcote Trevelyn Report which served to radicalise entry and recruitment to the Civil Service The modern GCSE and the plans for I levels are considered and key observations are made about the efficacy of those examinations offered by Oxford and Cambridge universities and O levels A levels and NVQs The reader is given every opportunity to benefit enthusiastically in this account of examinations and those engaged in education whether teachers examiners students or administrators will be able to gain useful insights into the workings of the examination system The Armed Forces Covenant in action? Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Defence Committee, 2013-07-18 A series of Ofsted inspections on Army Apprenticeships conducted in 2013 rated the overall effectiveness as good This was an improvement over the last inspection in 2009 rated as satisfactory now called requires improvement Some 28 per cent of Army recruits were less than 18 years of age Further information is needed on why the Army is so dependent on recruiting personnel under the age of 18 years compared to the other two Services and whether steps are being taken to reduce this dependency Of those recruited in 2012 3 5 per cent of the Army were rated at entry level 2 for literacy that of a 7 to 8 year old and 39 per cent had a literacy level of an eleven year old If as the MoD states it has to recruit personnel at whatever level of attainment is available then it should boost remedial action when recruitment entry standards are particularly low In light of changes brought about by Future Force 2020 it may be that recruiting personnel with higher levels of attainment would better meet the future needs of the Armed Forces Whilst the Committee recognises that some recruits may not be eager to take further academic exams the MoD should encourage more recruits to undertake English and Maths GCSEs which would stand them in good stead for future employment The MoD has carried out some useful pilot projects with paramedic training and should identify more potential projects to ensure that vital skills paid for by the MoD are not lost to the country

Education under Siege Mortimore, Peter, 2013-09-23 At a time when education is considered crucial to a country's economic success recent UK governments have insisted their reforms are the only way to make England's system world class Yet pupils are tested rather than educated teachers bullied rather than trusted and parents cast as winners or losers in a gamble for school places Education under siege considers the English education system as it is and as it might be In a highly accessible style Peter Mortimore an author with wide experience of the education sector both in the UK and abroad identifies the current system's strengths and weaknesses He concludes that England has some of the best teachers in the world but one of the most muddled systems Challenging the government's view that there is no alternative he proposes radical changes to help all schools become good schools They include a system of schools receiving a fair balance of pupils who learn easily and those who do not ensuring a more even spread of effective teachers as well as banning league tables outlawing selection opening up faith schools and integrating private schools into the state system In the final chapter he asks readers who share his concerns to demand that the politicians alter course The book will appeal to parents education students and teachers as well as everyone interested in the future education of our children

Numeracy and Learning Difficulties Peter Westwood, 2016-09-01 Numeracy and Learning Difficulties provides guidance on how to develop flexible teaching methods and strategies to improve mathematical skills of students It discusses common areas of learning difficulty in mathematics and looks at ways teachers can determine gaps in students knowledge as well as how to develop curricula and problem solving strategies to address these gaps
