from God's love for us but our modern world is filled with sexual expression that too often leads us away from the life of Christ. As Christians seeking to live a life worthy of our calling and desiring to pass along these values to our children and youth, this book explores how we as parents and adults can explore issues of sexuality in the context of our faith. A sexuality education resource from a mainline progressive denominational perspective aids the adult reader, teacher, parent, in learning and using skills that enable them to embrace and affirm the wholeness of sexuality and to talk openly and honestly about the connection of sexuality and faith. This book grounded from a theological perspective focuses on foundational issues for addressing how we and why we are called to have these conversations in a faithful community to support families. The importance of looking at one's sexuality throughout the lifespan through the lenses of decision making, faith, and daily life, respect, growth, and change, behavior, responsibility, values, prayer, and intentionality is explored, offering a grounding as well as a stand-alone resource for individuals and churches to build upon.

Digital Media, Youth, and Credibility Miriam J. Metzger, Andrew J. Flanagin, 2008. The difficulties in determining the quality of information on the Internet, in particular the implications of wide access and questionable credibility for youth and learning. Today we have access to an almost inconceivably vast amount of information from sources that are increasingly portable, accessible, and interactive. The Internet and the explosion of digital media content have made more information available from more sources to more people than at any other time in human history. This brings an infinite number of opportunities for learning, social connection, and entertainment. But at the same time, the origin of information, its quality, and its veracity are often difficult to assess. This volume addresses the issue of credibility, the objective and subjective components that make information believable in the contemporary media environment. The contributors look particularly at youth audiences and experiences, considering the implications of wide access and the questionable credibility of information for youth and learning. They discuss such topics as the credibility of health information online, how to teach credibility assessment, and public policy solutions. Much research has been done on credibility and new media, but little of it focuses on users younger than college students. Digital Media, Youth, and Credibility fills this gap in the literature. Contributors: Matthew S. Eastin, Gunther Eysenbach, Brian Hilligoss, Frances Jacobson, Harris R. David, Lankes Soo Young, Rieh S. Shyam, Sundar, Fred W. Weingarten.
